Leans toward Huron

County grills truck company

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer
Politics makes strange bed-fellows, says the old saying.

The Wayne County Road Commission, which had been feuding with Huron Township over traffic signs it erected to control sand trucks, lumbering through its area, is now beginning to side with its former adversary.

According to Sup. John Puskar, little was resolved Wednesday at a third meeting in Detroit between township officials and representatives of the road commission, the M & B Contracting Co. of Novi and the Detroit Edison Co.

About the only thing decided was that Edison next week will let the township know when another meeting of all concerned will take place on the truck controversy, Puskar said.

Huron Township installed traffic control signs a few weeks ago to reroute the return northbound leg of 80 to 100 trucks hauling sand from a Sumpter Township landfill site to Monroe for the Detroit Edison Co.

Township officials had contended the approximately six round-trip runs through certain areas, especially the Waltz community, created hazardous conditions for pedestrians and motorists within township limits.

The controversy went to Romulus District Court and to Wayne County Circuit Court. Last month, Judge Horace Gilmore ruled against the trucking firm and said that Huron Township had the authority to erect temporary traffic control signs for a 90-day period and the matter appeared settled.

But, the road commission, miffed that it was not consulted by the township for permission to erect the signs, got into the act and threatened to tear them down.

Three meetings by township officials, mainly Puskar and Police Chief John Carney, with the road commission have done little to resolve the matter.

However, Puskar reported that facts brought out at last week's meeting evidently have prompted the road commission to look at the whole situation in a new light.

After Puskar, Carney and the township attorney, Ron Woodall, had urged cooperation from all parties concerned, M & B maintained it had the right to use the most practical route for its trucks, contending the route staked out by the township for them was too bumpy. They said the partial fiber glass construction of their trucks could not take the rough pounding while traversing the route.

Puskar said the truck firm's claim did not set too well with road commission representatives present at the Wednesday session. They felt that the new trucks should be able to withstand road conditions encountered, the supervisor said.

After M & B declared the route set up by the township took its trucks 42 minutes longer, Puskar said a check by the township showed the newly-laid out run could be made "Within seconds" of the first one used by M & B.

Finally, he said the trucking firm agreed the new run could be made within six minutes of its original route.

Further discussion prompted road commission officials to state that they could not understand why M & B felt the route laid out by the township was rougher. In fact, they thought it was better than the first, Puskar explained.

He added that in previous court appearances, even the judge in Romulus District Court brought out the fact that M & B had similar problems with its trucks in other areas where the firm was doing business.

James L. Jones, regional representative for Edison, said his company was trying to correct an environmental problem at its Monroe facility with the hauling of sand from Sumpter. He added that Edison did not want bad public relations over the matter in Wayne County, Puskar said.

When road commission officials asked M & B if they would travel the new route if Huron took down the signs, Puskar said the firm said they would not.

The supervisor said it is his opinion that the road commission now is attempting to cooperate with the township and would like to see Huron and M & B resolve the whole matter on their own.

Also brought out at the meeting, he noted, was that a prime contractor evidently was hiring M & B and that Edison would try to put pressure on them to straighten out the trucking firm.

Puskar said he will ask the road commission office at New Boston for help in clearing debris left on streets in Waltz by the sand trucks. He said he was told that residents of the community were out sweeping the streets themselves to clean up for the annual homecoming Thursday, Friday, Saturday and Sunday of last week.

Romulus gets new postmaster

Mrs. Martha L. Wensko is sworn in Wednesday as the new postmaster for the city of Romulus by Joseph J. Loukatka (right), Detroit postmaster, at the Romulus postoffice, Bibbins and Shook streets, while Mayor William M. Oakley looks on. Mrs. Wensko, a clerk at the Romulus facility, replaced acting Postmaster Wayne Lamberson, who was reassigned to special duty at Dexter. Dennis

Nott, director of customer services in the Detroit postoffice, said Mrs. Wensko's new job was a "merit promotion for a career employee" and was in no way connected with the mayor's recent push to get a new postoffice for the community. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

The recently adopted Romulus city budget of more than $11 million incorporates a suggested public works capital improvement program that could reach in excess of $7 million.

A study and report of the capital improvement projects was jointly conducted and prepared by Romulus councilmen Fred Block, Ray Cantrell and James Raspberry. Assistance was given by the office of the mayor, department of public works and Wade, Trim & Associates, Inc., city engineers.

Some of the above projects will receive federal funding and the amounts stated are the city's share of the costs.

A total of $1,223,000 is available in the city budget for extensive water and sewer improvements throughout the city, the study reported.

Solicitors beware!

Tax billings are sent out

The first of two tax bills for 1978 are on their way to Romulus residents, according to Dave Krause, city assessor.

The July 1 billing, he said, will collect about 52 percent of the total taxes due this year — 12.2 mills for the city and 19.575 mills for the schools, half of its annual levy, and all special assessments such as delinquent water bills and street light charges.

The July 1 bill can be paid up to Sept. 30, 1978, without penalty, the assessor explained.

The second 1978 tax bills will go out Dec. 1 and will collect 19.575 mills, the second half of the school assessment; 7.57 for Wayne County; 1.08 for special education; and 0.81 mills for the community college levy, Krause said.

The second tax billing can be paid up to Feb. 14, 1979, without penalty, he said.

This year, he explained, the one percent collection fee usually charged city residents on their tax bills will not be levied, following action by the city council to drop the charge. The action will cost the city $120,000 in revenues, Krause said.

Mosquitos:

Their bite can cause more than just an itch

Mosquitoes can be nasty pests at this time of year in more ways than one. Not only can their bites cause itching nuisances, but bites from certain mosquitoes may cause outbreaks of a serious disease.

Most people who acquire a viral infection will not recognize any disease symptoms, but a small number of infections can develop into aseptic meningitis or encephalitis. In 1975 there were 36 reported cases of St. Louis Encephalitis throughout Wayne County. During the last two years there were a number of cases of this mosquito-transmitted disease in Michigan, but no cases were confirmed in Wayne County.

Dr. Perry Stearns, Wayne County health director, said there is no evidence so far this year of a St. Louis Encephalitis outbreak.

The health department's bird surveillance program is trying to determine if the virus that causes this disease is in the blood of local birds. The disease is passed back and forth between mosquito and bird and is transmitted to man by the bite of the mosquito.

Last year two birds out of more than 5,000 tested throughout Michigan showed evidence of some virus activity. Health officials are uncertain if the virus is carried over from year to year or whether a new disease cycle begins each year.

Area residents can help reduce the number of mosquitoes and the possibility of diseases. Since all mosquitoes require water for hatching of eggs, residents can help themselves and their neighbors by the elimination of water holding containers or ponded water on their property.

Specific suggestions from the Health Department for reducing mosquito breeding in the neighborhood include the following:

- Keep water changed daily in wading pools. Swimming pools unused for several days should still be filtered and disinfected daily.
- Keep water changed weekly in bird baths.
- Fill in low areas of yards that cause water ponding; discard any items such as old tires that hold water, and check house rain gutters and downspouts for clogging or holding water.

— Keep drainage ditches in front of property clean, and ornamental ponds should either be stocked with fish or drained and cleaned weekly.

Other helpful measures include cutting of grass and weeds close to the ground; and where mosquitoes still are evident the treatment of yard vegetation with residual insecticides such as Malathion.

Other relatively safe insecticides which can provide mosquito control for up to one or two hours are pyrethrums sold in several brand name products. These are contact sprays which have very little residual action, but provide short term effectiveness.

To minimize the annoyance of biting mosquitoes, the health department recommends that doors and windows be closed unless insect screening is available, that protective clothing be worn or insect repellants used when outdoors in areas with numerous mosquitoes.

If possible, it is better to stay away from wooded and heavily vegetated areas. Since mosquitoes are most active during evening hours, it is helpful to stay inside at that time.

The Garden Doctor says...

This week the Garden Doctor talks about:

Q: Some black and yellow worms are eating numerous holes in our elm leaves. What can we do?

A: They are called elm leaf beetle larvae. These skeletonizing worms do substantial damage to the leaves and can weaken the tree's vigor. They pupate into small beetles which can be a nuisance when they congregate in the autumn looking for a place to overwinter. Control is to spray the tree's foliage with Sevin (carbaryl) or Methoxychlor while the larvae are feeding.

Q: When transplanting the iris, I found caterpillars eating the rhizomes. I killed the worms and discarded the damaged rhizomes. What can be done in case some worms were overlooked?

A: There are a couple control measures. In late August to October the adult borers, which are moths, will be laying eggs on iris foliage to start the cycle over again. So if the dead leaves are raked up and destroyed this fall the eggs will be removed, too. Next spring spray every two weeks from the time the first growth appears until June 1. Use malathion or lindane. This will kill the newly hatched larvae before they can bore into the stems and rhizomes.

Q: Now that the rambler roses are finished blooming how should they be pruned?

A: Where ramblers are trained to a trellis or support so high that one year's growth will not cover it, cut off some of the older shoots. Shorten strong vigorous canes. This pruning will stimulate laterals to develop and continue to elongate and eventually cover the trellis.

Ramblers that are free-standing or against a fence can have the oldest canes completely removed to ground level. Trim back the remaining canes only if they are excessively long and unsightly.

Q: Sowbugs and millepedes are swarming over the soil around our house. Are they going to eat our flowers and shrubs?

A: Generally, these are not hazardous to plants. They are common in moist soil where there is some dead organic material such as dead leaves or wood chips.

Since they prefer dead plant material for their food, chemical control is not usually needed. If their numbers are excessive or if they start to wander indoors, Diazinon can be drenched into the soil where they're found.

SEMTA hosts public meetings about dial-a-ride

The Southeastern Michigan Transportation Authority (SEMTA) will hold a series of four public meetings in southwestern Wayne County beginning July 19 to discuss future plans for public transportation services in Belleville, Romulus, Huron Township and Sumpter Township.

SEMTA representatives will discuss plans for Taylor-Romulus dial-a-ride and a county-wide dial-a-ride service. Both services are part of SEMTA's Small Bus program designed primarily for the elderly and handicapped on a demand-responsive basis. Most of the vehicles will be equipped with wheelchair lifts to accommodate the mobility impaired.

The first public meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. July 19 at the Romulus City Hall, 11111 S. Wayne Road, Romulus. Other meetings are scheduled for 7:30 p.m. July 20 at the Waltz Community Center, 28245 Mineral Springs, Huron Township; at 7:30 p.m. July 24 at the Sumpter Township Hall, 23480 Sumpter Road, Sumpter Township; and at 7:30 p.m. July 31 at the Belleville City Hall, 6 Main St., Belleville.

Grants' cutoff is July 21

A deadline of July 21 has been set for preliminary applications for Foster Grandparent Program grants through the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging.

The Foster Grandparent Program offers opportunities for persons age 60 and older to provide individual care to emotionally and mentally disturbed children. Any public or private non-profit agency or institution may apply for a Foster Grandparent grant. The grant award will cover the period of Oct. 1, 1978 through Sept. 30, 1979. The grantee must be able to provide 10 percent local match and meet other requirements.

Office of Services to the Aging Director Elizabeth J. Ferguson said: "I anticipate that the 1979 fiscal year executive budget will enable the office to initiate three new Foster Grandparent projects, as well as maintain existing projects."

To qualify as a participant in the Foster Grandparent Programs, a person must be in good health and have an income of $3,450 or less. Foster Grandparents work with children four hours per day, five days per week, and 50 weeks per year. They receive a small tax-free stipend, lunch and transportation.

There are currently 14 Foster Grandparent Projects in the state, five of which are totally State funded. Approximately 890 persons participate in the Foster Grandparent Program working with more than 2,000 children.

For more information about the Foster Grandparent Program or a preliminary grant application, contact the Office of Services to the

TODAY'S Real Estate

by M. Phyllis Crabtree

For years, easy chair philosophers have said that land is the only sure investment. Real estate investing is certainly very profitable in many cases, but it is not a sure fire investment. You must be very careful when purchasing property, whether it is open land or has a building on it. Make sure you know what you expect out of the property before you purchase. Are you interested in a long term investment? Short term? Do you want to develop the land? Do you want to resell it for development? Is it accessible by road and for utilities? Is it for vacationing? Is it for personal use? These are only a few questions you must consider before you buy anything.

Local chiropractors walk to get funds for patients

Romulus chiropractors Dr. Ray Elwart, Dan Elwart and Warren Atkinson were among over 3,000 chiropractors who carried to President Carter July 3 some 40,000 petitions bearing over 300,000 names and addresses of chiropractic patients, collected during the month of June.

They joined their colleagues and patients in a walk to the White House and Capitol Building for the rights of their patients to receive federal funds in payment of chiropractic care the same as they do for medical and other health services.

The petitions, collected throughout the country during the month of June, read:

"We, the following concerned American citizens, petition you, our President, Senators, and Congressmen, to support and vote for federal legislation that shall include and provide for a freedom of choice of doctors and health care; the freedom to have full and complete chiropractic health care provided us in or out of hospitals, just as medical, surgical, and osteopathic care is provided in all programs such as national health and accident insurance, Medicare, Medicaid, and Veterans Administration and Civil Services."

The chiropractors, together with some of their families and patients, assembled at the White House at noon. They wore on their backs the words in red, white, and blue, "Give the 40,000,000 chiropractic patients their equal rights." On the front of their clothing they wore red, white, and blue buttons with the Liberty Bell in the center with the words, "Let Freedom Ring for Choice of Doctor and Health Care." Attached to the button was a teabag referring to the Boston Tea Party of early American history with the attached words, "Taxation without Representation."

A representative group of doctors and laymen entered the White House grounds through the East Gate and a certification of the names of the supporting patients was received for the President by a member of his Health Advisory Staff, Dr. Robert Berenson. A cover letter stated that actual copies of all the names and addresses would be provided later if desired.

After the maximum number allowed of 750 walked around the White House, they were joined by another 2,500 and walked down Pennsylvania Avenue to the Capitol steps and then to the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for a brief ceremony. Several short talks were made by some chiropractic leaders and patients to the thousands assembled and the news and TV media commending the 34 senators and 176 representatives who are already supporting the federal legislation, but condemning the principle of outright discrimination against chiropractic patients.

At noon, July 4, the group deposited 535 envelopes in the Post Office of Washington, D.C., each containing a certification of the copies of the petitions to their respective senators and representatives.

The organization making the collections and deliveries was MARCH, INC., a chiropractic patients' organization, and its president, William D. Brown, Ph.D., said the name is the abbreviation for "Medical Anti-trust Relief for Chiropractic and Humanity, an Indispensable New Cause-for-action."

Dr. Brown explained the action:

"There are about 20,000 practicing doctors of chiropractic in the United States with an average of approximately 2,000 patients each, and even though many of these 40,000,000 patients are presently covered by some form of federal insurance plan, some federal legislation still excludes chiropractic services which patients have found to be beneficial."

"It's not that the chiropractor does not get paid for his services. Most of the chiropractic offices today are full and nearly all of the chiropractic colleges have waiting lists of students even though their requirements consist of six years of college, a minimum of two years of pre-chiropractic training, and four years of chiropractic college before receiving their doctorate degrees. But these millions of patients who now must pay for their own services directly to their chiropractors now, insist on receiving equal federal reimbursement for chiropractic care when they find chiropractic helps their particular conditions the most."

Drs. Elwart, Elwart, & Atkinson were in Washington to attend a four-day chiropractic professional education seminar.

Right date for party

A party honoring Miss Elvera A. "Tootie" Fischer for her 25 years of service with the Romulus water department will be held at 6:30 p.m. Friday, July

Political sign okay expected in Huron

The Huron Township Board is expected to give approval Wednesday night (tonight) to a policy that permits erection of political signs under specific conditions.

A week ago, the Huron Zoning Board of Appeals had approved the following provisions: 1) okay of free-standing political signs, but prohibited their being tacked or nailed to telephone poles or trees; 2) political signs must be taken down within 48 hours after the election is over; candidates must post a cash bond of $50.

The board tonight is expected to okay everything routinely, but the cash bond provision. That provision was slated for extensive discussion.

Sumpter Day Saturday for area residents

Sumpter Township residents are looking forward to Saturday's celebration of Sumpter Day, complete with parade, all-day festivities and fireworks show.

Although the parade will not start until 11 a.m., Sumpter Road will be closed from Willis Road to Wear Road from 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. Saturday, according to Sup. Robert K. Demski.

Parade participants will begin preparing for their part in the parade at 10 a.m. in the parking lot of the Sumpter roller rink on Sumpter Road, south of Willis Road.

The recently-crowned Sumpter Day queen, Lawana Jordan, and her court of Kathy Smith and Jill Rose, will preside over the day's activities.

Entertainment will include an all-day moon walk, Booby the clown, Marce Rock 'n' Roll Band, Little League coaches baseball game, raffle drawing and fireworks display.

State Fair needs marchers, queens

The Michigan State Fair is looking for marching bands, floats, baton twirlers and beauty queens for special events at the State Fair this year, and they're offering a lot of inducements to make it worth your while.

Besides the usual cash and trophy awards the Fair offers a $100 travel compensation and a trophy for marching bands selected to be in the Grand Opening parade.

According to Harold Arnoldi, the fair's director of special events, the state fair is looking for:

- Floats and marching bands for the Michigan State Fair Grand Opening Parade Aug. 24.
- Beauty queens for the fair's Queen of Queens Contest.
- Baton twirlers for the fair's giant two-day baton competition.

The best float and the best marching band in the Grand Opening Parade will each receive a trophy and $300. The second and third-place floats and marching bands will receive trophies and awards of $200 and $100 respectively.

The fair's two-day baton twirling contest is an all-trophy event, Arnoldi said. It is one of the largest baton contests in the state.

The Queen of Queens Contest is open to anyone who has won a live beauty contest in the past year. Preliminary competition is Aug. 29. Finals are Aug. 30.

The Michigan State Fair will run from Aug. 25 through Sept. 4 (Labor Day) this year. It is the oldest state fair in the country.

For information about entering any of the fair's special events, contact Harold Arnoldi, Michigan State Fair, Detroit 48203, or call 368-1000.

Satiric 'Boccaccio '70' airs July 22 on TV-56

A collection of three spicy tales, starring a trio of European beauties, makes up the movie "Boccaccio '70."

This comedy with a satiric bite will be seen on "Film Festival with Paul Winter" July 22 at 10 p.m. on Channel 56.

The three stories, each of which also has a different director, have one thing in common. They all satirize man's prudishness and his double standard toward sex.

The first segment is titled "The Raffle." After a meek man wins Zoe (Sophia Loren) in a carnival raffle, the other men offer him fabulous sums for his ticket. But he holds on to his prize, knowing it will bring him the status he longs for. "The Raffle" was directed by Vittorio DeSica.

The second story is directed by Federico Fellini and stars Anita Ekberg. "The Temptation of Dr. Antonio" is about a fanatic anti-obscenity crusader, Dr. Antonio, who convinces authorities that a billboard on which Anita advertises milk must be covered up. Later, he has an hallucination in which a gigantic Anita descends from the sign to tempt him.

The last episode is entitled "The Job" and is directed by Lucino Visconti. Jaded by the splendor of his life, a young count begins seeing $1,000 a night call-girls. His wife (Romy Schneider) tells him that since she has always wanted to make her own living, she will "work" for him the same way and at the same price.

"Boccaccio '70" is produced by Carlo Ponti, with music by Nino Rota.

SUFFERING NEEDLESSLY?

Millions are turning to chiropractic because they are recognizing the scientific principles of nature that have made spinal adjustments effective for many conditions where other methods have failed.

The chart below shows the lateral view of the spinal column and indicates in section "A" names of the spinal nerves as they branch from the spinal cord and exit through openings between the vertebrae. All tissues, glands and organs supplied with life energy by these nerves are shown in the section marked "B" in the chart. SPINAL NERVE INVOLVEMENT CAUSES MANY CONDITIONS

The spinal chart shown above is directed especially to those people who have tried to regain their health through methods other than chiropractic, and have failed. That failure should not lead to discouragement, but to greater determination to discover the fundamental cause of all disease.

Since the discovery of chiropractic, no one needs to feel that he or she is destined to be sick all their life. Remember, "Where there is life there is hope and he who has hope has everything."

Tax rebate plan would replace utility relief aid

According to State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-38th District), the State House of Representatives has approved a $48 million income tax rebate program, for low-income families, designed as a permanent replacement of the state's utility relief aid program instituted last year.

The income tax rebate checks would state that the money is for utility bills, although the individual grants would not be related to utility costs.

The money is based on income and number of dependents, and is patterned after the existing property tax credit program when those taxes consume a high proportion of a family's income, Mahalak explained. A person would file for the rebate when filing the income tax form or on a special form.

About 625,000 families with incomes under $10,000 are expected to benefit from the rebates, which for a family of four with a $7,000 income would be $65. Senior citizens, the blind and the disabled would get larger grants because of larger exemptions.

The maximum grant for a single person would be $200; for a two-person household, $240; for three, $280, for four, $310; for five, $340 and for six, $370.

These amounts decrease as income rises about $1,000 changing at each $500 increment.

The program is a revision of one approved earlier by the House Appropriations Committee that would have cost $51 million, he added.

The House also adopted a resolution exempting dairy farms from PBB testing for their entire herds if 25 percent of their cattle are free of contamination.

Under the resolution, which now must get Senate concurrence, farms where 25 percent of the cattle have been culled and found not to be above the PBB limits set by law last year, the rest of the herd can be exempted with the approval of the Department of Agriculture.

Under the law passed in 1977, cattle with more than .20 parts per billion of PBB in their fat are to be destroyed.

The state currently is conducting tests to determine the impact, if any, of PBB on human health. The state also is involved in a court action over how to dispose of the carcasses of PBB-tainted animals.

Aquatic creatures are program topic

"Aquatic Curiosities—Wonders of the Pond" is a program designed for young people 12 to 14 years old, who are interested in discovering the wonders of life found in the waters of our ponds. The program will be held at Kensington Metropark near Milford on July 19 at 9 a.m.

Within the waters of a pond, you can find unusual and unique life-forms which have adapted to this wet world. Participants will collect some of these plants and animals in order to see them better under hand lenses. They will also discuss the relationships between members of the pond.

Advance registration is required for this three-hour program. Participants should meet at the Spring Hill Picnic Area and wear waterproof shoes or boots.

Vehicle entry permits also are required.

For information or registration contact the nature center of Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

Stony Creek Run set for July 25

The seventh annual Stony Creek Distant Run will be held at 9:30 a.m. July 25, starting at the Oakgrove picnic area of the Stony Creek Metropark, located near Rochester and Utica. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m.

More than 300 contestants are expected to race over grassy surfaces, through fields and along the lake. There are six race divisions—one mile for ages 1 through 11 years, 2½ miles for ages 12 through 16, 2½ miles for ages 17 through 27, 2½ miles for ages 28 and over, 2½ miles for women and five miles for the open class.

Trophies, medals and ribbons will be awarded.

There is no fee for entering the race, however, vehicle entry permits are required. For details on the race contact Tom Loll, meet director at the Stony Creek Metropark, 781-4242 (Washington exchange).

Editorial opinions

Romulus' time is now

With the unanimously approved Romulus city budget now on the books, it is time to comment on the improved political scene in the city.

It requires no good memory to recall the days of old in the city of Romulus when political in-fighting appeared to be the sole reason for the existence of that city's government.

On about any issue, the two diametrically opposed political factions (there were three and four divergent groups at one time) could always find common ground to disagree, as long as the TV cameras were rolling.

But with the recent approval of this year's city budget, and the apparent cooperation between the administration and council, a new day in Romulus has dawned. At least we all hope it has.

We have said in the past that the city of Romulus has within its grasp an almost unlimited potential. And that potential is limited only by the foresight and imagination of those elected to represent the citizens of the community.

It is for that reason that those elected representatives of Romulus need to remain ever mindful of the history of the community, and at exactly what cost the city endured its past reputation for 'politics first'.

But with that attitude in the past, it is time for the community to unite behind the efforts of its elected leaders and strive for the future which everyone is convinced Romulus is capable of attaining.

It is time for Romulus to share in the benefits to Metro Detroit of the Airport facility which is located in the heart of the community.

It is time for the community to fully exploit its full industrial potential, utilizing the airport as the catalyst for attracting new industrial tax base.

It is time for the community to invest its energies in the campaign to improve the image of Romulus and to provide a community for its residential property owners which they can be proud to claim as their own.

It is time for the city of Romulus to consider the benefits of incorporating its own full time police department. The annual struggle between the city and the Wayne County Sheriff's Patrol has provided few positive benefits for the community.

In general it is time for Romulus to begin its forward movement, and it is time in particular for Romulus to realize that its time is now.

The graduating seniors from Romulus High were recently told by a member of the Roman's staff that, "Others judge us by what we have done, while we judge ourselves by what we feel capable of doing".

That quote from Longfellow is also appropriate to politics.

If you never do your best, no one will ever know what you are really capable of, and the city may never realize its full potential.

Romulus' time is now.

The challenge then is for the Romulus leaders to provide the leadership which will move the community toward that goal.

The fine people who call Romulus home deserve no less!

About initiative petition

The system works!

In spite of the many claims to the contrary, it is now more apparent than ever, that the Democratic system works.

In this election year of 1978, several groups have emerged to push for legislation which they feel is important to the continued development of our way of life. But not to be overlooked is the fact that most of those groups have been able to freely campaign for their goals with little or no opposition to the principle which makes it all possible.

Initiative Petition.

Initiative Petition is the process by which a Democratic society expresses its desires for new legislation through the gathering of signatures on petitions seeking to have an issue placed on the ballot in the general election.

According to law, when a specified percentage of the registered voters within an area signify by their signature that they are in favor of placing an issue on the ballot, the state must grant that request.

And if this year is an example, the process does work.

Bearing in mind that any state-wide initiative Petition drive, if successful, must collect the signatures of 266,000 registered voters, and on the average 14-18 percent of the collected signatures are invalid, the actual number of signatures needed to insure that a question will appear on the general election ballot is then closer to 315,000.

Those petitions, each containing 20 signatures, and stacked 50-to-the-inch, would make a pile 26 1/2 feet high. That is impressive to us at Associated.

The dedication and stamina necessary to collect and file that many petitions, and to do so in just 90-days, is truly indicative of the spirit that has made made our country. But the spirit must still prevail in Michigan where not just one but 10 Initiative Petition proposals will be on the November ballot.

Questions on taxes, the drinking age, parole reform and several others have qualified for voter consideration, but all have one thing in common. Usually they address issues which our elected officials have indicated a reluctance to face.

While many are diametrically opposed to the Initiative Petition process on the basis that elected representatives are entrusted with the responsibility for determining the course of public affairs, it is fortunate that the majority do not hold that view.

We do not necessarily concede that the majority is always right, but they certainly are right often enough to be listened to. Anyone who would substitute their opinion for that of the majority is running a distinct risk of being proven wrong in the long run as history has so often shown, and paradoxically, probably the poorest judges of the temper of the country are those men and women who have been elected to represent us.

So when you enter the voting booth in November, consider for just a moment the effort expended to get each and every one of those proposals on the ballot. The spirit is still alive in Michigan.

About domestic violence

The Majority Leader
State Senator William Faust
13th District

Until recently, the problem of domestic violence, in particular spouse abuse, had long been ignored by law enforcement officials around the country.

There is widespread evidence that women tormented by violent husbands, and men who are victimized by overly aggressive wives have been forced to face their problems without any legal assistance from law enforcement officials or social service agencies.

There are many reasons behind society's permissive attitude toward spouse abuse.

Traditional attitudes on marriage, the legal obligations of husbands and wives to each other and the fear of reprisal from a spouse if a complaint was filed against them have contributed to spouse abuse.

Because of these traditional viewpoints and because of the emotionalism that accompanies domestic violence, law enforcement officials have maintained an unspoken "hands off" attitude in interfering in such disputes. As a matter of practice, unless a formal complaint is filed little is done by law enforcement officers to settle domestic arguments.

With few individuals willing to openly address the problem of spouse abuse by challenging those traditional attitudes, spouse abuse is a crime that has grown worse over the years.

National statistics indicate more than three million women are beaten and battered by their spouses each year. Some experts estimate that figure to be as high as 10 million. While women bear the brunt of physical abuse in domestic violence cases, there are other victims. In the case of children, not only are some physically abused but many children often bear mental scars from living in a home where one or both of their parents were victims of spouse abuse.

Domestic violence and the problems encountered by the victims of spouse abuse are issues which the Michigan Legislature is hoping to find solutions for during the coming months. It is likely those solutions will come through improved compensation for victims, through tougher laws expanding police authority in domestic disturbances and through an in-depth study of spouse abuse.

Last October Michigan's Crime Victim's Compensation Law went into effect providing victims of violent crimes with up to $15,000 in financial compensation to cover work losses and expenses that resulted from those crimes.

However, that law excludes victims of domestic violence.

This year the Michigan Senate approved legislation that would amend that law and provide victims of domestic violence with the same benefits as other crime victims.

If signed into law this measure would be a major step toward recognizing domestic violence as a serious issue and not simply a "lover's quarrel."

The senate is also considering five proposals that would give the courts and law enforcement agencies more authority in handling spouse abuse cases. Among those five measures is a proposal that would allow police to make an arrest at the scene of a domestic disturbance of a person assaulting a spouse, former spouse or a person of the opposite sex. That arrest would be allowed without a warrant, a right usually permitted only when a crime was witnessed by the arresting officer.

Additionally, the Michigan Legislature established a Special Joint Legislative Committee on Domestic Violence to review the problems and make recommendations on how Michigan can effectively eliminate it. That committee appointed a Citizens Advisory Task Force comprised of experts on Domestic Violence which will present their findings during a Legislative Seminar scheduled for June 12 in Lansing.

There is a prevailing attitude in the Legislature that action must be taken to protect the victims of spouse abuse. However, the responsibility of the Legislature goes beyond protecting the victims.

It is apparent that steps must be taken to identify the causes of spouse abuse and to provide services and programs that will eliminate spouse abuse and domestic violence completely by the end of this year.

Bike race thanks

To the Editor:

For the second year in a row, Belleville's Annual Bicycle Race was a resounding success. Registration and race participation were up 20 per cent from the previous year. However, as with our first race, the program would not have been possible without the dedicated participation of the following civic minded people and organizations:

T. Center, J. Monte, F. Hudson, T. Heath, D. Adams, G. Gears, B. Anglebrandt, B. Boelter, B. Waller and J. Cook.

D. Florian, L. Carlson, B. Cullin, A. Pitt, G. Pitt, K. Struble, B. Green, A. White, W. James, S. Stahl and J. Lightfoot.

POLICE OFFICERS Chief McLaughlin, A. Monks, J. Monks, R. Smith, K. Butler, J. Chapman, K. Harden, and BELLEVILLE DPW T. Talaga and Crew.

SPECIAL THANKS TO: Mr. and Mrs. P. Doyle, owners of Lakeview Printing, who developed and provided free of charge the individual names on the trophies. This was a real highlight for all of the 45 trophy winners. Jeff Price of the local Earl Keim Agency for use of a telephone during the race and their parking lot which served as our staging area.

Dave Medley, S. Jr. High Art Instructor,

D. Cox of the Wayne County Sheriff's Department for providing a motorcycle escort.

Last, but a real highlight of the day, was the fine parade featuring the Golden Garrison Drum & Bugle Corp.

In conclusion, we wish to express our deep appreciation to all of those who have made the Belleville Bicycle Race possible.

To the Editor:

Having just read the article in the paper regarding school administrator's raises, I feel that there are one or two points sorely missed about the decision.

I have been involved for some time with the Citizens Committee, and also with the school and feel that the decision to hold the line on salaries, was not just a put down to our administrators (the money had been budgeted), but one of the only options open to fund one of our special education programs mandated by the state.

A line budget item to fund the program in question ($48,000) had been inadvertently left out of the budget and due to the fact that the budget is constantly reviewed and altered to suit the needs of our school system, this just had to be done.

I commend our School Board for each and every one to stand and be counted, especially Mr. Paas and Mr. Cook who took the most difficult stand of all. Marilyn L. Montgomery

To the Editor:

On the evening of July Fourth someone took the "liberty" of giving two of my most cherished plants their "independence." These plants, whom I called Austin (asparagus fern) and Peter Parker (spider plant) were deeply rooted in "equality."

Formerly of 9416 Barry Drive they have now assumed a "separate and equal station" somewhere else. And "when in the course of human events" my right to "the pursuit of happiness" (i.e. owning them) is denied, it behooves me to seek "justice for all."

I hold this truth "to be self-evident": I would like Austin and Peter Parker returned.

Although they now probably are gracing someone else's home in their custom made macramé hangers (one 48" of gold sinnetts with brown beads, and one 26" in brown and orange jute) I would like them returned.

Especially because they were purloined on "Independence Day," a "decent respect for the opinions of mankind" requires whoever is responsible to return what is not rightfully his.

Editor's Log

Dear Congressman...

So write your congressmen.

That's the common retort heard whenever you have a complaint about anything. But everyone knows that "one man, or women, has little effect on the overall picture or scheme of things."

But some of us are just too bullheaded to accept that philosophy, so this is a letter to my Congressman.

Dear Congressman:

During your last campaign for office, you pledged to represent me better than your opposition might. You spoke of bringing government back to the people, and of reducing federal spending.

You said you were aware of the plight of the working man and would work hard to improve his situation, but still I see continuing abuse of bureaucratic power and its resulting waste of my tax dollars.

Now I know that the Washington political system is probably bigger than both of us, so I will not insist on your overnight reform of the 'perks' and 'strokes' which constitute the standard operating procedure of big time politics. But I had this idea.

While heading west on a recent vacation, my family took up the counting out of state license plates. While they were ingrossed in the contest to spot the many colorful entries from states near and far, the thought occurred to me that the cost of all that decorative tin must be astronomical.

Since I have been a supporter of yours for some time, I want to give you this great idea which could go far in helping you to satisfy your pledge to cut spending wherever possible.

Why don't you introduce a bill in the U.S. House of Representatives which would mandate the assigning of just one license number per auto, for the life of the Auto.

The plates could all conform to state policy but the one number would be assigned on the day the car rolled off the assembly line, and would not be reassigned until that car exited some blast furnace as an ingot.

No more standing in long lines to buy license plates at the last minute. No more cantankerous Secretary of State employees to put up with. No more kick-backs from branch offices to the Secretary.

Think of it. It would save millions. After passage of the 'Ford Uniform Auto Licensing Bill', the states would save millions by redirecting the efforts of the guests at the local reformatories to more worthwhile activities.

Not only would the states save money, but a whole new business field would open up. Personalized, chrome plated plates built to your specifications. Thousands of new jobs would be created. And if they qualified, all those lay-off former secretary of State employees could finally find a productive enterprise.

Of course the citizens who had been paying for new plates or stickers, or so they thought, each year might just be a little upset to have to continue to pay, just for the right to drive a car, but if you can handle Ralph Nader, you certainly could handle them.

So what do you think?

I know that you are probably too busy to answer my letter, and that's alright, but I hope you give it some thought.

Maybe, if you get a chance, you can pass it along to your colleagues in the Senate or even to Governor Milliken.

In the meantime, I will get to work with my saw and start on my own solid walnut, hand rubbed Michigan license plate.

Now let's see Is it Winter Water Wonderland or just Water Wonderland . . . ?

Difference delightful

By JOYCE HAGELTHORN

Everyone is talking about the differences between men and women...from Sydney Harris to Dr. Ralph H. Greenson, an eminent psychiatrist and clinical professor of psychiatry at the University of Southern California.

Sydney Harris cites the differences in the sexes as the reason for conflict in marriage. This struck me as a bit peculiar, because can you imagine what a conflict there would be if the two sexes were not different? I mean, after all, it is the very differences that make the other sex exciting...at least that's what I always thought.

However, now comes Dr. Greenson saying that men really want to be women and that it's the woman who is the sexy one and that the man is really blase about the whole thing. He says that the tendency of modern women to be more assertive and demanding terrifies the male, and he runs away from her in horror.

Well, time must have stood still where I live, because I haven't seen any males running away in horror.

The more I debated on the article the more I longed to hear it right from the horse's mouth. After all, there's something rather degrading about thinking about one's husband running from one in horror, when all the time you thought he rather liked you.

So I looked over the six heads of my kids and I said, point-blank, "Do you feel blase about sex?"

"Sure I do," he muttered behind the sports section.

"Did you know that Dr. Greenson says a shocking number of men want to be turned into women. Do you want to be turned into a woman?"

"Sure," he harrumphed behind the paper.

"Why?" I pursued.

"So that I can go to PTA," he said.

I could easily see I wasn't getting through to him. I shrugged my shoulders and looked at my six kids and thanked God I hadn't run into Dr. Greenson earlier in my marriage. If I had really known about men when I was younger I might have been left childless.

I turned to my fifteen year old kid and I said, "Did you know you wear your hair long because you really want to be a girl?"

"Sure, Mom," he grinned. "Everyone knows girls have it better."

Then I looked at the pixie cut on my teenage daughter and I said, "I suppose when they get around to investigating women's motives, they will decide you wear your hair that way because you want to be a boy."

"Sure," she lisped with her mouth full of Alpha-bits. "If all the boys are going to be girls, then we've got to turn into boys or we won't have much fun."

"How was the car show? I asked the man-who-would-a-woman-be."

He put the paper down and his face lit up, and the gleam came back to his eye, as he enthused, "You should have seen the mermaid on top of one of those cars!"

At this my fifteen-year-old kid shook the long hair out of his eye so that the gleam could gleam better, and he drooled, "Man was she built..."

I wadded up the front page of the paper and threw it in the fire...it's better that the men in my house not find out they are supposed to be blase about sex.

Health Beat

Creation is miraculous

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

Colorado Springs, Colorado. As I try to write this column, I'm sitting on the balcony of our second-story room at a fabulous Colorado Springs hotel; it's called the Four Seasons, and I highly recommend it to all travelers.

Directly ahead, past the swimming pool to the West, I can see a magnificent stretch of mountains which are known as the Front Range.

That range is dominated by one 14,110-foot mountain which even today on a warm June afternoon still has some snow lying unmolested at its peak.

On November 23, 1806, a young Army officer set out from the confluence of the Arkansas River and the Fountain Creek to conquer the challenge offered by what the officer named Grand Peak.

He and three of his men marched the 25 miles to the base of the huge mountain and began to climb. They didn't make it. They tried a second time, and again the mountain defied their attempts. Nature, it seems, has a way of humbling man.

Strange as it may seem, although the officer never reached the summit, the peak was ultimately named after him: his name was Lt. Zebulon Montgomery Pike.

Pikes Peak (and that's the way it's spelled, no singular possessive form is used) is not the tallest mountain in Colorado's chain of mountains. But, it is surely the most famous.

This morning my wife Donna and I had better success than Lt. Pike. We rode up the peak on the Pikes Peak Cog Railway. It's a 9-mile trip as the diesel-electric winds around the mountain stopping every so often to give the passengers certain views which they will most likely never again see.

About four miles into the journey, the train makes a stop. As you look to the East, you are almost forced to draw a deep breath. You see another mountain range many, many miles away. The range is covered with a purple mist. As you look out between the 'V' formed by two of the highest peaks, you see great fields of amber grain as your eyes take you all the way to Kansas.

It was at this point in the summer of 1893 that a young lady named Katherine Bates was inspired to write what has become a beloved song in our Nation's lexicon of historical music. She named the song 'America the Beautiful'.

As you sit basking in the majesty of that scene, you can easily understand how that famous song was written.

The trip continues past four huge snowed lakes lying at the bottom of a gigantic canyon. At about 11,500 feet, you reach the altitude known as timberline. Here, because the air is so thin, there is no more Aspen or Colorado Blue Spruce.

From the timberline to the summit, the ground is rocky and forbidding. We see two Rocky Mountain longhorn sheep frolicking about 200 yards away. And there are small, perhaps the size of others, weasel-like creatures indigenous to the area.

Some butterflies are seen, as are some brilliant yellow flowers. And just rarely, you see the state flower called the Columbine. The late President Eisenhower named his presidential airplane the Columbine because his wife was from Denver and he too was taken with the beauty of the flower.

We reach the summit, and are cautioned not to walk too fast or in any way overexert ourselves.

In about one minute we realize that the caution was not necessary. I take perhaps 15 steps, and feel a dizziness (different than my ordinary dizziness!) and feel I'm going to fall down. Indeed, the air three miles up is not conducive to exercise for the out-of-shape.

Snow stands on the ground in some areas. Yet, you walk around in shorts and are not at all uncomfortable. You move a stone, and notice that the ground is frozen. It's perma-frost or tundra and has been in the ground for eons—probably ever since the great glaciers roared through the area to carve out the deep canyons which now overpower us with their silent, almost arrogant presence.

There is dignity in the awesomeness of the mountains. And man must bow to that dignity. Man must work with, and not against nature.

As you sit on the summit and let your legs dangle off of a shelf of rock, you have the time to assess honestly your meaning to this experience called existence.

And you know, as you gaze out over 100 miles, that really, you as one person are not too significant to the master plan of life.

Creation, quite clearly, was and is miraculous. (Next week, after I'm home in Westland, I plan to write about another of nature's miracles called the South Cheyenne Canyon).

On the Brighter Side

'No column this week'

By JIM BRADLEY

I don't have a column this week. I know that breaks your heart but I struck it rich while on vacation in Missouri last week. And I didn't have time to write an article.

The family and I felt we just had to get away for a week's relaxation in a small town in southern Missouri where my wife's relatives live. I won't say how small the Missouri town is where we went, but they painted, "You are now entering and leaving Norwood" on the same sign.

When my wife and her sister went to visit relatives on her side of the family, I felt it was a perfect time to write my column. "Jim, be sure and have your column done by the time we get back," my wife ordered.

After everyone was gone, I prepared to write another masterpiece. I got out my pen and notebook. They don't have typewriters in Missouri. (At least Mark Twain never used one!)

Then it happened.

While waiting for inspiration to strike in the form of a column idea, I noticed two magazines on the floor. What happened next explains why I don't have a column this week.

The first advertisement to catch my eye was entitled: "How to Get Rich Doing Nothing." Now that's an intriguing title—especially since I was halfway there. (I was already doing nothing). Might as well get rich doing it, I thought.

The ad asked how I'd like to make $9,000 for one day's work; $35,000 for a week's promotion or $750 for an hour's time. Before I had time to repair my patched blue jeans, they answered their own question. I could become a promoter, they said, whether I was 21 or 71 years old. Since I was neither, I felt left out and turned the page.

I'm glad I did. Because there was an even better opportunity staring me in the face. "I CAN MAKE YOU APPEAR TO BE A MILLIONAIRE (in just four weeks!)" the headline promised. That's nothing, my credit cards do that already, I mused.

The man promised in the letter to make me appear to be a millionaire. He assured me I'd take a luxury cruise around the world, have a color TV in every room, expensive cars, luxurious homes and beautiful clothes. He said I'd even attract glamorous women. "It'll be your choice every day—blond...brunette...redhead. They'll hang on you like flies." (And me without a flyswatter!)

In my poverty-stricken condition I was just about ready to let this man give me the appearance of a millionaire. For only 10 dollars, yet. However, I glanced at a third advertising letter that just about broke my heart.

"My friend," the ad pathetically began, "I'm getting old, and I don't have much longer to live. Unless I do this now, when I go the secret goes with me." (I didn't know whether to finish reading the letter or to call the rescue squad.)

He told of his lifelong quest for knowledge and of reading all the books of ancient lore. He delved into the oldest recorded writing of ancient civilizations and almost insanely (his word) put all the pieces of the puzzle of life together. No part of the earth missed his searching gaze. (He probably even rode the Corkscrew at Cedar Point.)

For only 10 dollars he would share all the "secrets of the ages" with me. Almost as if he had read my mind, he added a P.S. to his letter. "I hope you don't think that I'm only interested in your 10 dollars. I would like to give the book to everyone free (sure you would!) but I have found that people appreciate things more when they have to pay for them."

How could I deny this dying man's request? I leaned back and tried to decide which offer to take. Shall I be a promoter and make $9,000 a day? How about letting this other guy give me the appearance of a millionaire? And what about this dying man who offered me the "secret of the ages?"

Each of the offers cost only 10 dollars but they would make me a millionaire many times over. I reveled in my thoughts and dreamed of what I would do with all the money I'd have in just a few weeks.

Just then my wife came through the front door. "Have you written your column yet?" she demanded.

"No, I haven't even started yet—but..."

"You lazy bum! You aren't worth two cents....!!!"

"You're right," I agreed, "but I will be if I can get to the hospital before this dying man passes away and takes his secret with him."

CINDY REEVES

CAROL FISCHER

LARRY MANDERS

Three Army cadets are receiving practical work in military leadership at the Army ROTC advanced camp at Fort Riley, Kan.

The cadets are David M. Turban, whose wife Cynthia lives on Maple Drive in Belleville; Elaine Foster-Loukinen, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carson Foster of Eureka Road, Romulus; and Larry M. Bergmooser, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Bergmooser of Barth Road, Romulus.

The five-week ROTC advanced camp provides an opportunity for cadets to develop and demonstrate leadership capabilities in a field training environment.

Most cadets are fulfilling their advanced camp requirement during the summer between their junior and senior years in college. However, there will be a number of graduating seniors who will receive Army commissions at the completion of the camp.

Turban is attending Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti, while Foster-Loukinen is studying at Northern Michigan University in Marquette. Bergmooser, a 1975 graduate of Romulus Senior High School, is a student at Michigan Technological University in Houghton.

Air National Guard Airman Cindy J. Reeves, the daughter of Jack E. Reeves Sr. of West Huron River Drive, Flat Rock, has graduated at Lackland Air Force Base, Tex., from Air Force basic training.

The airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations. Completion of this training earned her individual credits towards an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Airman Reeves now goes to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., for specialized training in the administrative field.

The airman is a 1976 graduate of Huron High School.

Airman L.C. Ronnie W. Norris, the son of Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Norris of McBride, Belleville, has arrived for duty at Elmendorf Air Force Base, Alaska.

Airman Norris, an avionics instrument systems specialist with a unit of the Alaskan Air Command, previously served at Altus Air Force Base, Okla.

The airman is a 1975 graduate of Cody High School in Detroit.

Airman Larry M. Manders, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence J. Manders of King Road, Romulus, has been assigned to Keesler Air Force Base, Miss., after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland

Air Force Base, Tex., the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special instruction in human relations.

Airman Manders now will receive specialized training in the avionics systems field.

The airman is a 1977 graduate of Woodhaven high school.

Reserve 1st Lt. Michael D. Sternfeld of Romulus, recently completed the Military Police (MP) Officer Advanced Course at the Army Military Police School at Fort McClellan, Ala.

During the course, MP officers received advanced training in leadership, management and command and staff organizations. Instruction was given in the functions of the provost marshal and the application of automatic data processing systems to MP use. They also studied crime prevention, correctional operations, traffic control, criminal investigation techniques and security management.

Sternfeld received a bachelor's degree in 1972 from the University of South Dakota, Vermillion, where he was commissioned through the ROTC program.

He is a deputy U.S. marshal with the Department of Justice in Detroit.

Sternfeld and his wife, Kathleen, live on Whitehorn in Romulus.

Marine Cpl. James C. Carter, the son of Eugene R. and Catherine H. Carter of New Castle, whose wife, Dollie, is the daughter of Dollie Farr of 6189 Cordell, all of Romulus, has reported for duty with the Third Marine Division on Okinawa.

A 1972 graduate of Romulus High School, he joined the Marine Corps in February 1976.

Documentary looks at Tip

Washington's normally unseen inner power circles provide the backdrop for a 60-minute documentary on the Speaker of the House, Tip O'Neill.

"Mr. Speaker: A Portrait of Tip O'Neill" will be seen Tuesday at 9 p.m. on Channel 56.

The program is the culmination of seven months of following, filming and studying the complex man who holds one of the most powerful offices in the land, Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives.

The scenes of political maneuverings shown during the program are rarely viewed by "average" citizens. The "inside" is, at best, a fast-moving, often confusing place, where decisions are made through a complex system that makes little sense to the uninitiated. At worst, it's a world closed to outsiders with decisions made by men who are answerable only to themselves.

One of the highlights of the program is the coverage of a crucial event surrounding the investigation into the Korea bribery scandal. Captured on film is O'Neill facing questions from reporters about his office's role in the investigation.

Lighter moments are featured as well. One of them involves a lively party at the O'Neill's summer home, where guests including Barbara Jordan, Boston Mayor Kevin White and the German ambassador, are treated to the Speaker's rendition of his favorite song, "Apple Blossom Time."

Kay Bee Construction
Salesmen Licensed

The home improvement industry has seen some drastic changes in the past few years. For one thing, all sales people are required by law to be individually licensed. The license insures home owners that any representative is qualified to have a sound knowledge of basic building codes. Also, that he is a legitimate and an ethical person.

Kay-Bee Construction is a family owned and operated business. Louis Grosslight drove a horse drawn trolley down Woodward Avenue in Detroit in the 1800's. Sherman Grosslight was the founder of Kay-Bee Construction and he was one of the pioneers in the home improvement industry. It was his idea to make sure that sales people have individual licenses, so that the consumer would be better protected.

Now Terry Grosslight, a third generation Detroit, is the president of Kay-Bee Construction. Terry has first-hand knowledge of all types of building. As a college student he spent his summers working with the various trades in the building business. "I worked with the laborers digging foundations, cement men, finish carpenters and all the various trades. I guess you can say I learned from the bottom up, and I am very grateful that my dad had the foresight to make sure I could experience various problems that occur in the building of any job."

Terry now heads the multi-million dollar Kay-Bee Construction Company. He has seen some of the changes in past years in the home improvement industry. However, he still operates on one old-fashioned principle—"Most customers don't do much building in a lifetime. Perhaps they remodel a kitchen, or add a room on. Whatever the work is, it is something new to them and therefore we see they (the customer) gets special consideration." A timetable which schedules all the trades to work is given out, and as Terry preaches to his many employees, "the customer is always right." That may seem to be a trite statement, but it has helped Kay-Bee Construction become one of the leaders in home improvement industry.

With the cost of new houses so high Terry feels that his business and the industry in general will continue to grow. As a last word of advice to prospective home improvement customers, Terry said, "Make sure you know your contractor and be sure he has been in business for a period of time and has a good reputation."

Sharing ideas

Three Van Buren Township officials recently conferred with Congressman William D. Ford during the congressman's Municipal Conference, held in Washington, D.C. Attending the conference were Steve Partridge (from left), water department director; Township Clerk Doreen Craven; Congressman Ford; and Township Trustee Jerry Maton. They were among local officials from throughout the 15th Congressional District who participated in a three-day session of briefings and seminars on federal programs designed to aid local communities. Among the speakers was Secretary of Labor F. Ray Marshall.

Show looks at bats

"Bats Diners of Darkness" is the title of an evening program to be held at the nature center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on July 20 at 8 p.m.

The program will consist of a slide show dealing mainly with Michigan bats and will cover such topics as types of bats, habitats, feeding habits and evolution. After the slide show, an observation session will be held outside to look for bats.

This program is free, however vehicle entry permits are required. Advance registration also is required.

For information or registration contact the nature center of Kensington Metropark at 685-1561 (Milford).

Conservationists want truck firm to restore creek

The Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) is calling on the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers to force a trucking company to restore part of Ecorse Creek in Romulus.

The organization claims the Jones Transfer Co. illegally filled in some 250 feet of the creek and diverted the channel without the necessary federal permit. The company claims the new and larger channel was necessary to hold flood waters and to provide more efficient use of its property. The creek has been diverted to follow the edge of the company's property.

Thomas L. Washington, MUCC executive director, said his organization has requested that the Corps "take appropriate steps to see that Ecorse Creek is restored to its original natural channel and revegetated to protect water quality of the creek."

In reaffirming its objections to the project, MUCC told the Corps: "MUCC is committed to maintaining as much as is left of the two branches of Ecorse Creek in their natural state for this and future generations. We do not believe projects of this type enhance that objective, show any respect for the potential value and conservation of this unique urban resource or are in any way in the public interest."

MUCC continued: "We are not convinced that this project was necessary at all, except for the convenience of the applicant. We are not aware that the consulting engineers to this project provided the applicant with any alternatives (such as retention basins) to the creek relocation.

The entire project is being constructed in the flood plain; the public trust in Ecorse Creek should not be sacrificed to provide flood holding capacity for private interests."

Washington noted that two years ago the Wayne County Drain Commissioner proposed enclosing all of Ecorse Creek in an underground concrete tube. That project was killed through citizen opposition.

Washington said: "This project by Jones Transfer stems from that same engineering mentality that looks at Ecorse Creek as a ditch standing in the way of progress rather than as an invaluable natural resource."

MUCC chided the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for ignoring the project.

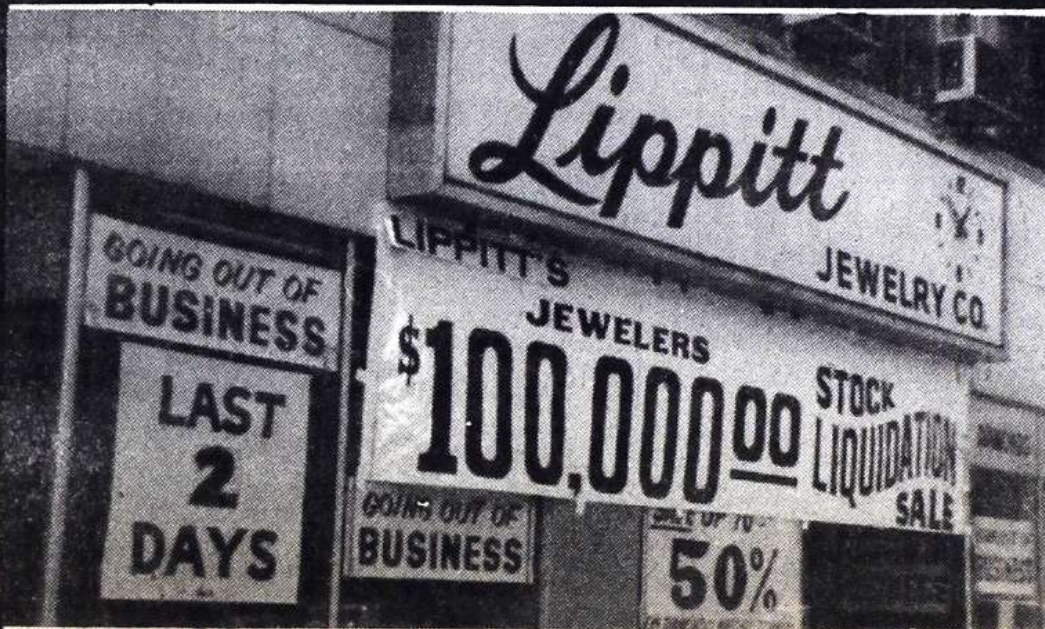

"We are spending millions of dollars in the greater Detroit area to improve urban fish and wildlife resources. We suggest that a proper federal emphasis is first preserving what we have."

Washington also criticized the Department of Natural Resources for what he termed "once again issuing state permits with no consideration of alternatives and no mitigation for damages. Once again, the DNR has endorsed the 'just a nibble' philosophy in the destruction of our limited water resources."

For electronic banking

Proposal sets up consumer safeguards

Strong consumer safeguards for electronic banking have won final approval in the state Senate.

"For almost every advantage consumers can gain from electronic banking there is a distinct disadvantage. This is why the Consumers Council has been at the forefront of the electronic banking controversy for almost four years," said Linda Joy, executive director. "The legislation...reflects a sharp change in consumer attitude. Consumers are no longer indifferent to electronic banking. They now realize that--without safeguards--their privacy could be jeopardized as well as the very security of their accounts."

With EFTS (Electronic Funds Transfer Systems), financial institutions can install electronic terminals off their premises--in locations such as shopping malls, public buildings, airports and other points of consumer convenience.

Through use of an automatic teller machine (ATM) consumers can make deposits, withdrawals, transfers between checking and savings accounts and payments to other persons without ever going near a financial institution.

After making a purchase at a store using a point of sale terminal (POS), consumers present a plastic coded card, called a debit card, at the cash register. The card and bill are fed into a terminal and the funds instantly switch from a consumer's account to a store's account.

One of the most important consumer protections in the bill would allow information about an account to be revealed only with the specific permission of the consumer, unless required by law or a court order.

"Another key provision," Joy said, "allows consumers to reverse payments for purchases over $50. As it is now, dissatisfied consumers who pay by check can stop payment. This is important leverage for consumers--important leverage which would be lost with an electronic banking instant payment system."

The bill says consumers cannot be held liable for the unauthorized use of a debit card unless there is negligence on the part of the consumer. It provides guidelines for resolving errors, prohibits the mailing of unsolicited useable cards, and requires receipts and periodic statements.

To help ensure the security of any electronic banking system, the bill requires that consumers be able to limit the total amount of cash which can be withdrawn from their accounts at an EFT terminal and that they be able to limit access to one or more specified accounts.

Joy said: "These protections, along with the existing authority of the Financial Institutions Bureau to mediate consumers' complaints, will provide a firm regulatory framework for the developmental stages of the new technology."

The bill sponsored by Rep.

William Keith (D-Garden City), will be sent to the governor for his signature.

Officers picked for OEDP

Members of the recently formed Overall Economic Development Program Committee for Wayne County (OEDP), a voluntary advisory group of private citizens, has chosen officers from its membership who will guide policy they establish to attract federal dollars for local expansion of industry and commerce.

The 24-member OEDP was created by the County Board of Commissioners in April to qualify and compete nationwide for receipt of funds from the U.S. Economic Development Administration (EDA).

In 1979, the EDA expects to have available more than $625 million for local communities to encourage, develop and expand economic and job programs in areas with a 6.5 percent or more unemployment rate.

Chief among the new OEDP officers who will lead strategy in developing and deciding on projects that satisfy the EDA are Arthur C. Gibson as chairman, David S. Williams as vice chairman, Phillip C. Sims as chairman of the economic development subcommittee, Evelyn Caise as chairman of the manpower subcommittee and Susan Sommer as co-chairman of the manpower subcommittee.

Within its current structure, the committee was sub-divided into two standing subcommittees--one will explore the economic development resources and possibilities of various proposals, while the second will take up a consideration of the available manpower aspects of the projects.

The members of the economic development subcommittee are chairman Sims, Joseph D. Crea, Nathan Johnson, John Stock, Donald

D. Juchartz, David S. Williams, Robert Hoffman, Joseph Flynn, Paul Buday, Loyd Sharland, Daniel Voydanoff and Jack Steiner.

On the college scene

Residents receive advanced degrees

Several Belleville-Romulus residents among students to receive advanced degrees at the 125th spring commencement of Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti April 23.

Belleville collegians collecting advanced degrees were Elsie Goode of Denton Road, master of arts; Jay Hartford of East Huron River Drive, master of science; Sandra McGahey of Burtrig, master of arts; MaryBethany Newman of North Liberty, master of arts; Richard Nowak of East Willis, master of science and Larrow Tonda of Carriage Lane, master of arts.

The Carleton graduates were Rita Bullard of Grafton Road, master of science; and Carolyn Gay of Timbers Road, master of arts.

The lone Flat Rock degree recipient was James S. Martin of Magnolia, master of arts.

The Romulus graduates were Sharon Karr of Wahrman, master of arts; and Dale Travis of Hannan Road, master of science.

In other college news: Three students—two from Belleville and one from Romulus—have been named to the dean's list for the spring semester at Albion College.

The Belleville students on the Albion dean's list were Michael M. Mlsna, a freshman and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Michael M. Mlsna of Haggerty Road, and Julia A. Priest, a sophomore and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Priest of Wilson Avenue.

The Romulus honoree is Norman L. Sims, a May 1978 Albion graduate. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy G. Sims of Ozga Road.

A student must have a 3.4 or better grade point average, while carrying a full class schedule, to be named to the dean's list at Albion.

Recent Central Michigan University graduate Robann Mateja of Romulus has received an outstanding senior award through the CMU department of chemistry. Ms. Mateja received the American Chemical Society award for outstanding senior chemistry major. The honor was determined by the students' outstanding performance in chemistry and her potential in a science career.

Ms. Mateja was the valedictorian of the 1974 graduating class of Romulus High School. She was a member of the CMU academic honoraries Phi Kappa Phi, Kappa Mu Epsilon (Mathematics) and Beta Beta Beta (biology). She will study graduate chemistry at Loyola University in Chicago, where she has been awarded a teaching assistantship.

Two Belleville residents are among the first half of almost 3,000 students, who will be freshmen at Western Michigan University this fall, to complete their three-day summer orientation program.

Diana Gillespie and Bob Lucius visited campus buildings, took tests, conferred with faculty advisors and registered for classes during their orientation.

The fall semester will begin Aug. 28.

Michael Dziobak, a senior majoring in chemistry, was among 806 students to achieve placement on the spring quarter's dean's list at Michigan Technological University in Houghton.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Dziobak of Prescott, Romulus, he had to maintain a 3.5 or higher grade point average to be named to the dean's list.

Citizen panel presses for county tax renewal

An unusual coalition of top community leaders from both the central city and suburbs have joined in launching a drive for voter approval of Wayne County Proposition A—the one-mill renewal on the Aug. 8 primary election ballot.

The group, with Chief Judge Richard D. Dunn of Wayne County Circuit Court, heading its executive committee, are "Citizens For County Proposition A."

Mayors Coleman A. Young of Detroit and John B. O'Reilly of Dearborn, were among the Proposition A supporters.

Proposition A proposes to continue for five more years an expiring one-mill property levy ($1 per $1,000 of assessed valuation) which has been renewed twice by the voters since its original approval in 1964.

Dwight Havens, who retired this month after 18 years as president of the Greater Detroit Chamber of Commerce, wrote the first check after Dunn announced that donations would be sought to underwrite a "modest" information campaign.

"The caliber of the people who already have joined 'Citizens for County Proposition A' speaks eloquently to the importance of this millage renewal," Dunn commented. "We want to emphasize this is only a renewal—not an increase—and it's getting results."

"Better than half (53.5 percent) of this millage goes to fund the law enforcement and justice system—and we believe that was a factor in last year's 17 percent drop in the crime rate in Wayne County—the first decrease in 10 years," Dunn added. "The crime rate still is dropping—and we want to keep it that way."

"Most of the remainder (23.3 percent) goes toward basic public health, hospital and mental health services, with the rest (23.2 percent) helping to fund general government functions, social services, public works and the 4,000-acre county park system."

Among those who are members of "Citizens for County Proposition A" are Joseph E. Stermer, executive vice-president of the Southern Wayne County Chamber of Commerce; DeWitt J. Henry, executive director of the Downriver Community Conference; Msgr. Clement Kern of Most Holy Trinity Church, Detroit; Prosecutor William L. Cahalan; Sheriff William Lucas; Jarrett Simmons and Richard E. Manning, chairman and vice-chairman respectively of the County Board of Commissioners; and Leonard D. Proctor, chairman of the County Board of Auditors.

Also on the panel are Ray W. MacDonald, board chairman of New Detroit Inc. and past chairman of Burroughs Corp.; Lawrence Washington, president of the Detroit Branch NAACP; Tom Turner, president of the Metropolitan Detroit AFL-CIO; Marc Stepp, UAW International vice-president; and Roman W. Ulman, president of the Central Citizens Committee of Greater Detroit.

Proctor warned of "devastating" cuts if the one-mill is not continued. He pointed out that the county faces a projected budget deficit of up to $12 million even with the one-mill, "due primarily to legally mandated program expansions in the criminal justice system."

The county's law enforcement costs have increased 81 percent and court-related costs 58 percent in the last five years, while the cost-of-living index (a measure also of the cost of doing business), has increased 42 percent during the period.

However, Wayne County's property tax revenues have increased only 15 percent during that time because property valuations have not kept pace county-wide.

Cahalan pointed out that his office felt the impact of the County budget crisis this year when, following expiration of a federal grant, his Repeat Offender's Bureau was reduced by half despite its 90 percent success rate for convicting violent career criminals.

"Any further cuts and we'll be back to the 'bad old days' when we were losing major criminal cases because we had too few assistant prosecutors to allow time for adequate trial preparation," he commented.

Lucas said: "This millage is clearly vital to law enforcement in Wayne County. Any inadequacies that now exist will only be compounded if we lose it."

"Citizens For County Proposition A" will attempt to raise about $20,000 to cover the cost of printed materials and paid advertising.

"We want this to be a real grass roots effort," Dunn stated. "We especially invite those who have received services from the county or county-assisted agencies to contribute."

"We suggest $1—the amount the one-mill represents in the average monthly house payment—for those who can afford it. But we'll be just as grateful for a few postage stamps from those less fortunate, to help meet mailing costs."

Information requests and contributions may be sent to Citizens For County Proposition A, Law Center Building, 2nd Floor, 600 Woodward Avenue, Detroit, Michigan 48226, or call 963-0899.

Reuther facility to remain open through Aug. 28

The Wayne County Board of Commissioners has approved the continued operation of the Walter P. Reuther Long-Term Care Facility in Westland through Aug. 28, while negotiations concerning the facility's future continue at the state level.

The board acted at a July 6 meeting after being informed by Board Chairman Jarrett Simmons (D-Detroit) that the county has been promised full state reimbursement of costs at least until that date.

The legislature's Joint Committee on Capital Outlay is expected to recommend a course of action regarding the facility's future by September.

Faced with $12 million budget deficit, the Board of Commissioners adopted a recommendation by the County Auditors that the county cease to underwrite the Reuther Facility's $3.5 million annual operating deficit and ask the state to increase its reimbursements for patient care to keep the facility open.

The legislature provided a one-time-only grant of $1.7 million to keep the facility operating for six months while its future was under study. There has been a series of smaller additional outlays to continue its operation since.

HAVE FUNERALS CHANGED?

The name of the local newspaper in Tombstone, Arizona, is "The Tombstone Epitaph." The town's famous graveyard, Boot Hill, is a widely known tourist attraction and an American history lesson all in one. Tombstone has purposely secured its niche in western American by clinging to elements of its historic past. While times and cultures do change, some traditional observances have never altered significantly. Such is the case in the observation of the traditional full-service funeral.

Progress of civilization has brought about improved techniques and products, but the basic reasons for conducting traditional funeral services have remained the same. Dignity, respect and love for the individual; loyalty to high ideals; and expressions of tender sympathy are timeless, universal qualities among advanced societies.

We are experienced and professional funeral directors. As such, you may confidently put into our care all the responsibilities of preparation and conducting of a traditional full-service funeral.

Belleville couple aid Indian

David, an American Indian boy, faces a brighter future today because Thomas and Peggy Jones of Belleville have undertaken his sponsorship through Save the Children, the international child assistance agency headquartered in Westport, Conn.

Save the Children provides community services, training and development help to more than 430 communities in the United States and in 17 countries overseas. Through this sponsorship the Jones' join some 100,000 Save the Children donors who currently aid more than a quarter million have-not families around the world.

Sponsorship funds combined with those from other sponsors of children in the community, are used to support the people in self-help projects to benefit all the children. Improved schools, health care and income production are major concerns. Save the Children staff helps the people decide on priorities and offers training in the "how-to" of community development.

Commenting on this new sponsorship, Save the Children president David L. Guyer said: "Sponsorship help affects the lives of many people — the sponsored child, his or her family, the other children of the community and, of course, the sponsor.

"For sponsors the child represents in a very personal way not only the realities of poverty but tangible evidence that something can be done to help."

Guyer noted that every Save the Children sponsor receives a case history and picture of the child. Correspondence and visits are encouraged and warm personal relationships often develop.

Founded in 1932 to aid Appalachian victims of the Depression, Save the Children is a pioneer in community-based development programs aimed at helping children by improving life in the communities where they live. The agency has been an innovator in developing partnership community assistance programs in which Save the Children help is matched by self-help activities in the community.

The agency holds consultative status with UNICEF and the United Nations Economic and Social Council. It helped formulate and is a signatory to the first code of fund-raising ethics for child-sponsorship agencies and actively supports federal legislation to insure ethical fund raising activities among all charitable organizations.

Individuals, schools, groups, business and civic organizations interested in details of Save the

Children, Dept. P, 48 Wilton Road, Westport, Conn. 06880.

TIPS FOR HOMEOWNERS

A tip on adding insulation to an attic floor: Use batts or blankets that don't have a vapor barrier, which is a layer of heavy paper or foil on one surface. A vapor barrier might trap moisture within the old insulation.

If the vapor-barrier-type is all that is available, slash the barrier freely with a knife. Then install the insulation with the slashed side on the bottom.

If no insulation already exists, thick batts with a vapor barrier should be laid between floor joists with the vapor barrier down.

More tips are available in a 24-page booklet, "How to Save Money by Insulating Your Home." Send 30 cents to National Mineral Wool Insulation Association, 382 Springfield Ave., Summit, N.J. 07901.

Mortgage 'shopping' pays off

(This is one of a series of public service articles explaining in general terms, a provision of Michigan law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

BY ATT. GEN. FRANK KELLEY

With interest rates for home mortgages steadily rising, it is worth your while to check around and find the payment plan that saves you the most money. Several options may be available to you.

The most common method of financing a home is through a mortgage. In this case, a lending institution agrees to loan you the money to buy your home. In return, you pledge to repay the lender the cost of your home plus interest, within a designated period of time. You hold the title to the property even while you still are paying for it.

To get a mortgage, begin by checking various sources including banks, savings and loan associations, mortgage companies and credit unions.

When you contact these lenders, find out what rate of interest they charge, how much of a down payment they require and what the closing costs will be.

Interest rates vary between lenders. Take the time to compare rates, for the difference of as little as one-fourth of one percent can save thousands of dollars over the life of a 30-year mortgage. Ask if the lender will lower the interest rate if you increase the size of the down payment.

Closing costs refer to expenses incurred to complete the sale. These include recording deeds and legal documents, appraising the property, securing title insurance and ordering credit reports. Borrowers must be provided with a detailed list itemizing the closing costs, as well as the interest being charged.

Lower- and middle-income families often qualify for Michigan Housing Authority loans. Interest rates on these loans usually are several percentage points less than other loans.

Another possibility is to purchase the property on a land contract. Down payments often are lower.

Celebrating 85 years of "People Helping People"

Linda Amerman now Mrs. Paul H. Brunson

The First United Methodist Church of Belleville was reserved June 24 for the double ring ceremony which united Linda Woods Amerman of 4404 Blackberry Lane, Lansing, and Paul Howard Brunson of 16555 Glenwood, Stilwell, Kans., in holy matrimony.

The daughter of William Amerman and the late Althea Amerman, Linda exchanged vows before The Rev. Joy Arthur. Mr. and Mrs. William Brunson of 6212 Peachtree Lane, Wichita, Kans., are parents of the bridegroom.

For her wedding day the bride selected a gown of white chiffon styled with a high neck forming a yoke with reembroidered Alencon gracing the collar and empire waistline. Long, fitted sleeves with matching lace at the top were covered by full bishop sleeves which opened from the shoulder to the deep lace cuffs. An attached circular train added back interest to the gown.

Her double tier fingertip veil of bridal illusion drifted to chapel length from a lace applique headpiece. Completing her bridal finery was a bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids, roses and stephanotis accented with trailing English ivy.

Cynthia B. Palmer of Belleville carried out the role of maid of honor with Jan T. Amerman of Charlottesville, Va., sister-in-law of the bride; Leslie Scherer of Wichita, Kans. and Pamela Brunson, the bridegroom's sister, also of Wichita, as bridesmaids. The bride's small cousin, Noelle Amerman, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Amerman of Belleville, completed the bridal coterie as flowergirl.

The bridegroom asked Victor Chesky of Halstead, Kans., to serve as best man. Groomsmen were the bride's brother, Mark Amerman of Charlottesville, Va.; Mike Sullivan of Abilene, Texas and David Trombold of Wichita. The corps of ushers included James Amerman II of Belleville, cousin of the bride; Billy Brunson of New York City; and Henry Freeman of New Haven, Conn. and Greg Hampton of Wichita, brother-in-law and cousin, respectively, of the bridegroom.

Following their wedding reception in the Fellowship Hall of the church, the newlyweds departed for a honeymoon in the Virgin Islands. On their return they took up residence in Stilwell, Kans.

The new Mrs. Brunson, a member of Belleville High School's class of 1974, received a bachelor of arts degree in voice from the University of Kansas where she is now a post-graduate student. She is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, international music fraternity.

Brunson, an alumnus of Wichita Collegiate School and the University of Kansas, has a bachelor of arts degree in English and history and master's in business administration. His affiliations include Alpha Phi Omega, national service fraternity; Alpha Mu Gamma, national foreign language society, and Alpha Chi, national scholastic honorary society. At present he is employed by IBM in Kansas City, Mo.

Zucchini's on the scene — start saving recipes

Zucchini, if you're familiar with the wonderful green vegetable, is one of those plants that just about never quits. Once its season has arrived, it just produces and produces and...

For that reason the Suburban Living pages will attempt to squeeze in at least once recipe for the squash plant each week until its growing days are at an end.

In today's "potpourri" column, we've an easy-to-do dish from a reader in Belleville utilizing the vegetable. And here's still another. Start clipping and saving.

eggs slightly; stir in remaining ingredients except cheese and meat.

Arrange half the zucchini in ungreased baking dish, 11½x7½x1½ inches. Top with half the rice mixture and repeat layers. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese, arrange the sliced meat on top and bake one hour uncovered.

— from LEE SMITH

Zucchini-Bacon Bake

- 8 small zucchini
- 2 eggs
- 2 cups creamed cottage cheese
- ¾ cup uncooked instant rice
- ½ cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons snipped parsley
- 1½ teaspoons marjoram
- ¾ teaspoon salt
- dash red pepper sauce
- ¾ cup grated Parmesan cheese
- 1 pound Canadian bacon (sliced)

Cut unpared zucchini into ½-inch slices. Cook covered in one inch boiling salted water for 5 minutes; drain. Beat potpourri

Suburban Living Editor

Received a call last week from a reader who not only wanted to share her pet zucchini recipe with us (now that THAT vegetable is about to debut) but suggested I write a few words to those errant new brides who, once the wedding hoop-la is over, forget there are thank you notes to be written.

As many of us do, our reader ordered her gift sent directly from the store where the young woman was registered, her monthly statement has since arrived and she's in limbo as to whether or not the item was ever delivered.

So—come on you newlyweds—let's get with it! And, yes, I AM using the plural—why NOT have hubby lend a pen for all those special gifts they BOTH received?

If those thank you's don't go out to relatives and friends who cared enough to SEND a gift, you just might find yourselves getting a few embarrassing phone calls and people asking if you got the blanket or candlesticks or whatever.

Even in this day of the "etiquette lapse", thank you notes are a "must" (in ANY gift-giving situation) whether you have thanked the person personally or not.

And now for that squash dish which sounds as easy-to-make and delicious as our donor (who, unfortunately, wishes to remain anonymous) says it is.

SWEET 'N SOUR ZUCCHINI

- 3 medium zucchini squash
- ¼ cup vegetable oil
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- 2 tablespoons sugar
- sweet basil, to taste
- salt and pepper

Cut zucchini into ½-inch pan slices or strips. Saute in oil until lightly brown and soft; remove from pan. Add remaining ingredients to oil, heat; return zucchini and simmer 3 minutes. Serves 4.

If, like the average American, you're having a love affair with ice cream (and I mean the dipping kind, not the soft stuff) here's a tip on a super spot for cones.

It's a bit out of the way (rather an understatement) but since so many of us travel US-23 so frequently, you might like to jot down this stopping-off place for future reference.

Should you find yourself in the vicinity of Dundee (that's between here and Toledo), by all means sidetrack (it's just a wee way off the highway) and get yourself a bona fide old-fashioned ice cream cone at the dairy on Tecumseh Street.

A mere 69 cents, our double dips the other night (mine a mound of blueberry cordial and lemon creme) were the equivalent of two good-sized fists and DEE-licious! (Oink!)

SPOT REMOVAL TIP: On finding several small foreign blotches on BG's otherwise clean pale blue sportcoat, I decided to try my luck with an idea I had. (It could always go to the cleaner LATER if I goofed).

Took a clean white washcloth (figuring the terrycloth would work as a "scouring" agent) and dampened a small area with the Spray 'n Wash I use in the laundry. Rubbed the spots very gently and IT WORKED! Being just barely damp, the cloth let no wet spot and acted like an instant spot remover.

A pleasant conversation with Marian Dawks of Romulus last week gave us HER favorites to add to last week's "bests-at-the-restaurants" bit. She says the stuffed baked potatoes at Topinka's get HER top vote and that she feels hunger pains anytime she thinks about the chicken paprikash at Hungarian Kitchen and the fried shrimp at Ciungan's.

We all have our favorites but don't you just LOVE George Burns?—in ANYthing? And isn't Erma Bombeck the FUNNIEST writer in family land? Does anyone else opt for Jack Le Goff as the local newscaster who epitomizes the dignity, stage presence, appeal and delivery that should be expected in his particular field? And does anyone else see a resemblance between TV's Phil Donahue and St. Anthony's Father Skoney?

There are two recipes I'd love to include in my own personal file and, if I luck out, will be only too happy to share them with "potpourri" readers. Two members of the Home Arts Club were responsible for some of the delicious refreshments served at the March meeting and, although we all oohed and ahhed over them, no one followedup and GOT the recipes.

So—Frances Jobe and Rhoda Chapo—if you'd be so kind, we'd like the how-to's for your punch and bar cookies.

NIGGLY LITTLE ANNOYANCES: The way biscuit mix is packaged! With both sides of the inner liner having unsealed folded seams, it's almost impossible to pour from the box without mix all over the place. It's also equally difficult to scoop the stuff out with a measuring cup. MESS-IE! Maybe we ought to write the company or perhaps drop a complaint to Charlotte Montgomery, the "Speaker of the House" for Good Housekeeping magazine.

THE BOTTOM LINE: You know your children have finally left the nest when they call home and it isn't collect anymore.

Salad for supper

A Patio Chef's Salad of ham, Swiss cheese, packaged enriched pre-cooked rice and sweet green peas is a hearty and almost no-work version of a cool summer favorite. Prepare the rice early in the day then add the remaining ingredients just before serving for an easy-to-do meal. An icy drink, soft or crunchy rolls or crackers and perhaps a simple dessert will make it all a "snap" for the lady-of-the-house. (Photo courtesy Minute rice.)

for chef's night off

If Chef Salad is among your summertime solutions to the problem of what to cook when you don't feel like cooking, you can expand your repertoire with this hearty version of Chef Salad made with Minute rice.

Prepare the seasoned rice early in the cool of the morning and refrigerate until meal time. Just before serving, fold in julienne strips of ham, Swiss cheese and the mayonnaise dressing.

Serve with a pitcher of minted iced tea, buttered rolls or bread sticks and a platter of fresh fruits and the "Chef" can enjoy a lovely summer meal out on the veranda, instead of in the kitchen.

Patio Chef's Salad

1 package (10 oz.) 5-minute cook frozen sweet green peas
1 teaspoon grated onion

1/2 teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
1-3/4 cups water
1-1/2 cups packaged enriched pre-cooked rice
1/2 cup chopped dill pickle
1-1/2 cups thin strips cooked ham
1-1/2 cups thin strips Swiss cheese
1 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup milk

Or use 1/2 cup mayonnaise and 1/4 cup French dressing; add a small amount of milk, if necessary.

Bring peas, onion, salt, pepper and water to a boil in saucepan; then simmer 2 minutes. Stir in rice. Cover; remove from heat and let stand 5 minutes. Fluff with a fork. Chill. Just before serving, gently stir in pickle, ham, cheese, mayonnaise and milk. Serve with crisp greens, if desired. Makes about 7 cups or 6 servings.

Swinging and Sunning

The wooden swing on the front lawn of Wayne Convalescent Center seemed like a nice place to relax during one of the warm summer days last week. So Mrs. Anna Frommert (center), age 103, flanked by her daughter

At 103 Agnes Frommert has a right to be fiesty

At age 103, Agnes Frommert is surely one of the oldest Wayne residents, and probably the fiercest, as relatives and staffers at the Wayne Convalescent Center found out last week when they asked Mrs. Frommert to pose for a picture.

The grand old lady has been a resident of the center for some five years, as has her 65-year-old daughter, Hedwig. Mrs. Frommert's niece, Adele Alsmann, 70, also resides there. The ladies lounged on a pine wood swing in the warm sun last week. Mrs. Frommert finally agreeing to the picture taking session as her family visited. The matriarch has had four children, (one deceased), eight grandchildren, 29 great-grandchildren and four great-great-grandchildren, according to her daughter.

The family members live in cities throughout the area, including Wayne, Belleville, Romulus, Taylor, Livonia, Monroe and Newport.

Mrs. Frommert herself used to own a farm on Ecorse Road, where she and her husband raised their family and lived for more than 35 years. She was born in Germany, but has lived in the United States for at least 75 years, said her daughter.

A lively character, she's prone to a wide range of moods, and would only consent to being photographed after a bit of coaxing. At age 103, she apparently figures she's earned the right to do exactly as she pleases.

Hood, Campbell are wed

Patricia Dawn Campbell, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Thompson of 15798 Orchard St., Romulus, became the bride of Donald Eugene Hood Jr., the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald E. Hood Sr. of 27058 Stacey, Taylor, during a six o'clock ceremony June 23 at Allen Road Missionary Church.

The Rev. Donald H. Severance presided at the nuptial rite before some 50 relatives and close friends.

Given in marriage by her stepfather, the bride appeared in a gown of white satin and lace and a full-length illusion veil. Her corsage was comprised of sweetheart roses, carnations and lilies of the valley.

A similar corsage was presented to the honor attendant, Carrie Lynn Demeter, cousin of the bride.

James Grimes was best man and ushers were Rick Soyer and George Gibbons Jr.

A reception attended by some 75 guests took place at the Pulaski Civic Club in Ecorse.

The bride attended Romulus High School where her husband graduated with the class of 1978. On July 6 he departed for basic training with the U.S. Marine Corps at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

Angela Lynn makes debut on June 30

The arrival of Angela Lynn Leach on June 30 marked the beginning of a fourth generation on the side of her mother. The first child of Richard and Cheryl Leach of 109 Carnell, Belleville, the infant was born at 11:24 a.m. at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti.

The 7 lb. - 8 oz. baby, who measured 20 1/2 inches in length, is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard D. Leach and Ann Ray, all of Belleville, and Franklin D. Ray of Ypsilanti.

Taking honors as great-grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. George Steger of Belleville; Mrs. Lucy Lanham of Canton, Ill.; Mrs. Rachel Leach of Joliet, Ill. and Mrs. Elsie Ray of Ann Arbor.

vows exchanged

New residents of Romulus, since their return from a honeymoon trip to Northern Michigan, are Mr. and Mrs. Ronald David Kilgore who were united in marriage June 2.

Grace E. M. Shewchuk, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steve Shewchuk of Wayne, became Mrs. Kilgore during a nuptial ceremony held at the Fairlane Gardens in Dearborn.

The bride, given in marriage by her grandfather, Thomas J. McIelwain of Windsor, Ont., Canada, is a 1976 graduate of Wayne Memorial High School. Her bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kilgore of Westland, is a 1976 alumnus of John Glenn High School.

A reception for the newlyweds was held at the Wayne Community Center.

Johnsons welcome host of relatives, here for wedding

By Mrs. Joseph Spring

Weekend guests at the Roland Street home of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Johnson were the former's mother, Mrs. Scott Johnson, Hazel White and son, Kevin, Mr. and Mrs. Gary White and family, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Johnson and family and

Mr. and Mrs. Andy Johnson, all from Hartley, Ky. Also Mr. and Mrs. Homer Johnson of Timberville, Ohio; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Beskins of Columbus, Ohio; Mrs. Bill Beskins and son, Chris and family from Pikeville, Ky., and Mr. and Mrs. Abe Santa, Tim and Tina from Long Beach, Calif.

All were relatives who came to attend the wedding of the Johnson's son, Amos, Jr., and Brenda Sue Hawkins, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hollie Hawkins, on Saturday, July 1.

After having spent the past four weeks at Roxbury, Conn., with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. M.F. Marshall and family, Mrs. Muriel Smith of Liberty Street returned home on Saturday of last week. Mrs. Ruth Miank, who has been a patient at Beyer Hospital for several weeks, is now at Knox Extended Care Center, 1200 Earhart Rd., Ann Arbor, Room 209 N.

Eric Peterson, Karen and Brian from Punxsutawney, Pa., and Mrs. William Pierce and son, Robert, of Belleville.

Around town

By LEE SMITH

The prediction was 'showers'

Kimberly Ann Eichold, who has an August 19 altar date with Michael Smither, was the honored guest June 25 at a bridal shower held at the Odd-fellow Hall on Savage Road.

Hosted by the bride-elect's family and bridal attendants, the afternoon party included card bingo and a lasagna dinner. A special shower cake with a miniature bride and her six bridesmaids atop, which served as centerpiece at the table, was made by a friend, Barbara Brentke. The floral arrangements were awarded as door prizes to Gail Hancotte and Sally McClinton, both of Belleville.

When Kim unwrapped the many items which will fill closets, cupboards and drawers in her new home, she was assisted by her sister, Debbie, who's to be maid of honor; and Donna Smither, Marsha Owen, Carolyn Phillips, Kim Calhoun and Mary Beth Adler, members of the bridal coterie.

Some 60 guests, who'd come from Leslie, Utica, Pinckney, Byron, Tecumseh, Taylor, Southgate, Canton, Trenton, Ypsilanti and Belleville, enjoyed seeing Kim's gifts and hearing about her wedding plans.

St. Anthony's Catholic Church is being reserved for the ceremony which will unite the daughter of Larry and Bev Eichold of Lenmoore Drive and the son of Tom and Gert Smither of Elwell Road.

SHOWER TAGGED "KITCHEN-PANTRY"

When invitations to the bridal shower planned for Bonnie Hall of Romulus were opened, they read "kitchen and pantry" and "please bring your favorite recipe along." So — not only did Bonnie receive many useful items for cooking, baking and dining but some helpful suggestions for future meals.

Hostess at the party was Eleanor Thompson of Ypsilanti, the bride's aunt and Godmother, who was assisted by her two daughters, Karen Matke of Ann Arbor and Caroline Wilkins of Saline.

The trio had planned a patio luncheon but due to uncooperative weather the salad buffet had to be set up in the family room. Using a mint green and yellow color scheme, the party planners centered their tables for four and six with nosegays of miniature carnations and baby's breath which later went as house prizes to Lenore Gladner and Mary Waddell of Dearborn; Grace Shattuck of Plymouth and Esther Hall of Wayne.

Court whist was the afternoon entertainment followed by the gift presentation. On hand to help the bride-to-be were her college roommate, Dawn Struthers of Midland, and Kerry Thompson of Ypsilanti, who will be in the wedding party.

Bonnie is to be married to Curtis Meiers of Rochester on Sept. 9 at the campus chapel of Michigan State University in East Lansing.

OPEN HOUSE HELD

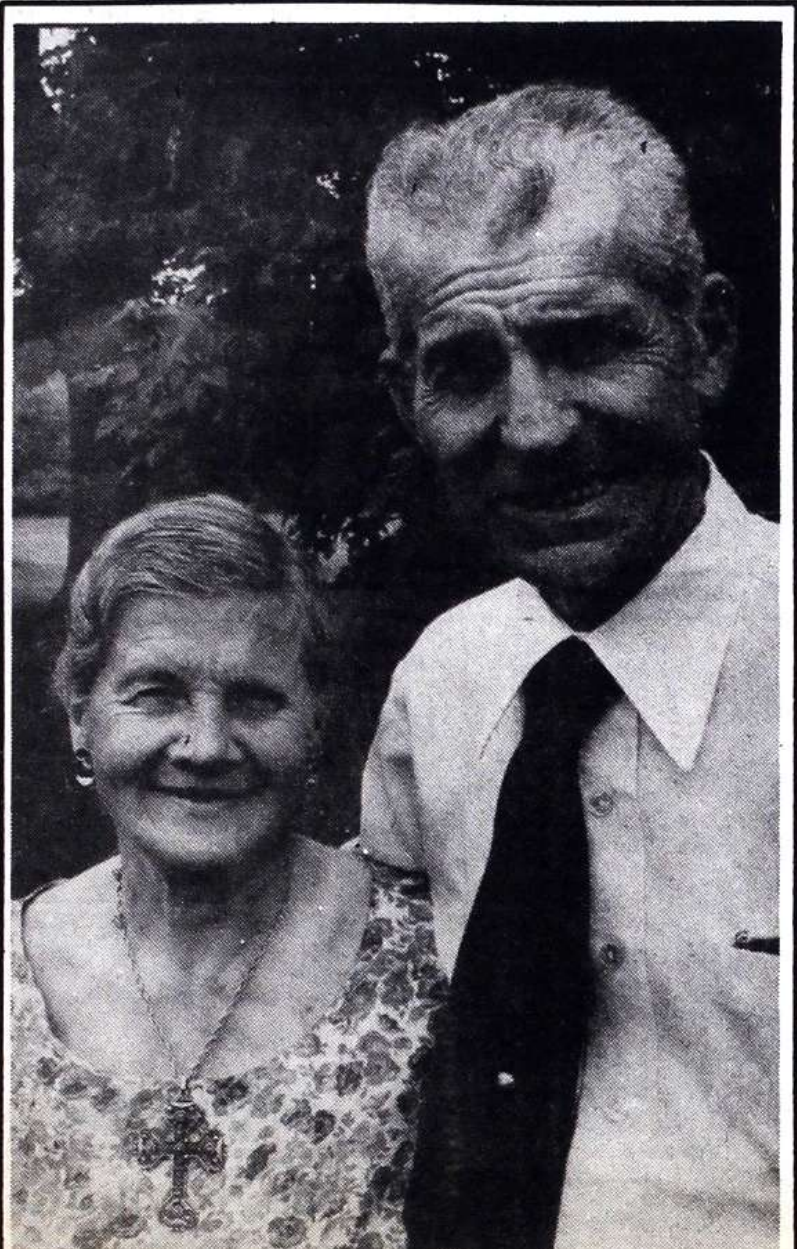

Among the recent graduates to be feted at receptions was Anthony C. Suessine III, an honor student and member of Romulus class of 1979.

Held June 25 at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony C. Suessine of Niagara Street, the open house was attended by some 80 relatives and friends including the honored man's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Suessine Sr. and Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Shivel, all of Taylor. Out-of-towners were Mr. and Mrs. Andy Curylo, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Chapman and Mrs. Lawrence Nolan of Jackson.

Tony, who is 17 years old, has been accepted by Central Michigan University in Mt. Pleasant for the fall term. He plans to study computer science.

Annual art fair takes over streets

Ann Arbor's nationally acclaimed summer art fair, where nearly 1,000 artists will display metal sculpture, paintings, photography, jewelry, pottery and many other art forms, will be held next Wednesday through July 22.

In addition to the displays, there will be demonstrations by artists working in wood carving, silk screen printing and weaving.

There also will be an abundance of traditional, ethnic and health foods, along with performances by theatrical groups and musicians.

The annual summer event, which is composed of three district fairs held simultaneously, is expected to draw more than 300,000 people to central Ann Arbor during its four-day run.

The original Ann Arbor Street Art Fair, now in its 19th year, is located in the South University and East University streets area of central Ann Arbor. The fish has been the mascot of the fair since the very first year. A merchant donated several Japanese paper fish and they've been floating over the fair ever since.

An Art Fair Acceptance Committee, made up of artists who judge only their field of expertise, select the "cream of the crop" for the fair. The artists are not only judged prior to coming to the fair, but a second evaluation of those chosen occurs on the street during the fair. This helps determine the artists who will be invited to return, as well as create openings for new applicants.

The 11th annual State Street Area Art Fair, located on East Liberty, Maynard and North University streets, attracts more than 150 Michigan and out of state artists to its streets and striped tent. Originally, the fair was not juried, however, now, participants are selected by an Art Fair Committee.

The third is the University Artists and Craftsmen Guild's fair. Their Summer Arts Festival is located in two separate locations — on Main Street in downtown Ann Arbor and on East University Street. This festival began in 1971 with a group of U of M students as an outlet for themselves and other artists. They joined with the University Activities Center and formed the Artists and Craftsmen Guild. The Guild's guidelines for exhibiting in the fair require "handcrafted, original design and work of the exhibiting artists from beginning to end."

Information booths will be located throughout the three fairs. Hours of the fair are from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. Wednesday through Friday, and 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday. Shuttle bus service connecting the three fairs and running from outlying areas into central Ann Arbor will be provided by the Ann Arbor Transit Authority. Complete schedules and information will be available at the information booths.

In addition to the groups mentioned above, co-sponsors of the summer events include the University of Michigan, the City of Ann Arbor and the Greater Ann Arbor Chamber of Commerce.

Folger's silver coffee collection 'stars' at Historical Museum

The Folger's Coffee Silver Collection — one of the most significant private collections of antique English silver coffee pots in the world — is on exhibit for the first time in Detroit through July 30 at the Detroit Historical Museum.

The scope and quality of the Folger's collection combine to make it the most complete and outstanding collection of its kind in the world. Spanning a reign of four English monarchs, the coffee pots and related accessories from the 18th and early 19th centuries represent a progression of styles from basic simplicity through rococo ornateness and finally to the stark, classically-inspired forms of the end of the period.

Chosen by the Folger's Coffee Company, under the careful guidance of leading museum officials and silver experts, each of the

'Ten Little Indians' to open at Hilberry Theatre July 19

Agatha Christie's murder delight, "Ten Little Indians" will open at the Hilberry Theatre on July 19 for a two-week run. The theater is located on the Detroit campus of Wayne State University.

This classic thriller will play Wednesdays through Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. through July 29.

The setting for Dame Christie's play is perfect for murder: an old mansion on an island off the English coast, approachable only through an unreliable motorboatman. The time is the 1930s. To the island a group of people have been invited by the mysterious U.N. Owens. As all settle in, the guests and servants learn that sometime in his life each person in the house has been responsible for the death of another. Also in the mansion is a mantelpiece full of Indian statuettes, each with an embossed nursery rhyme telling how the Indian died. Soon, the occupants of the mansion begin turning up dead, each in a manner prescribed by rhyme.

In leading roles of "Ten Little Indians" are Erick Devine, Mark Robbins, Cynthia Dozier, Jim Birdsall and Douglas McBride, all members of the Hilberry Repertory Company. The thriller is directed by Robert Emmett McGill, with set design by Russell Smith, costumes by Ellen Ryba and lighting by John Toia.

Because plays in the Hilberry's Eighth Summer Theatre Festival are running in series and not repertory as they do in the regular season, patrons are urged to make reservations now, since performances are limited.

"Ten Little Indians" runs concurrently with "Chronicles of Bohikee Creek" by Robert Unger, downstairs in the Studio Theatre, and matinees of the children's play, "Step on a Crack" by Suzan Zeder and the Paw Paw Puppet Theatre. Contact the Hilberry Theatre Box Office at 577-2972 for exact times and reservations.

The plant menagerie

It's not a greenhouse, but it sure is green, with plants everywhere waiting for new homes. It's the offices and storage warehouse of Deco Plant Center run by Linda and Bill Colvin of Garden City. They are center managers who oversee and advise home "consultants", the demonstrators who take plants to plant parties held at private homes. They use a soilfree "hydroculture" system for growing the plants, a system that solves problems of over and underwatering and fertilizing, and guarantees healthy plants.—ANP photo.

Hydroculture: Grow plants without dirt

BY MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

The pursuit of the perfect plan of plant-growing often ends up in a heap of brown leaves and limp stems for unlucky indoor horticulturalists. They chide themselves for not talking to their plants, for overwatering or underwatering, fertilizing or not fertilizing and in general lacking the coveted "green thumb."

If you've given up on plant-growing, though, you may just want to give yourself one more chance with a new soilfree "hydroculture system" of growing indoor plants. The system is promoted by Deco Plants Company, a division of Ralston Purina Co. Local center managers are Linda and Bill Colvin, who began their business last November. The plants are sold and the system explained by "consultants" at home plant parties.

The Garden City central offices serve the entire Western Wayne County area and even further, with the business expanding as new consultants are hired. The demonstrators, usually women, often take the job for a part-time income, since they work as independent business persons and set their own hours. Others can book more parties to earn more money, or eventually work their way up to be a center manager in the company.

They will explain to you and your friends, in your own home, how the hydroculture system makes it easy for you to provide exactly the right amount of water and nutrients to grow luscious plants without soil. And without accompanying dust, bugs and bother of dirt-bound foliage.

What you're doing with this system actually is growing your plants in water, Mrs. Colvin said.

The stones hold the roots in place and also act like sponges to draw the water from the bottom so that the entire root will be fed. Gauges at the bottom of each pot show you precisely when the plant is out of water and needs a refill, avoiding overwatering. And the nutrients usually gotten from soil are provided through a bottled solution, mixed with the water you use to feed the plant.

If roots get unruly, you simply lift the interior pot that has a slatted bottom out of the exterior pot, and snip them off, gradually, so the plant won't miss them. You virtually eliminate the need to continually re-pot, Mrs. Colvin said.

At the home parties, the demonstrators tell you how to care for each variety of plant, how much sun they need and so on. Price of plants can range from $7 to $30, with more than 150 varieties, she said.

She stores the plants in her Garden City warehouse located in the industrial park near Ford and Venoy roads, demonstrator takes a carload with her to sell right at the home parties.

The "living stones" used in the system are not the everyday variety you can pick off the street. They are synthetically produced from a clay base, Mrs. Colvin said.

Linda and Bill Colvin are originally from Louisiana and moved to Garden City to become Deco center managers last November. They're still expanding their base, and are constantly on the look out for new "consultants" or demonstrators to sell the plants at parties.

Mrs. Colvin said there are five centers such as theirs in Michigan. The Houston-based company is only three years old, and since the beginning has flourished.

Art foundation seeks '79 award nominees

The Michigan Foundation for the Arts is asking community arts councils and other groups and individuals interested in the arts to submit nominations for the 1979 Michigan Arts Awards. Deadline for receipt of the nominations is Oct. 15.

The awards, which were initiated two years ago, "will be given annually to one or more Michigan artists who have brought distinction through their artistic work to themselves and to their state, according to a foundation statement. The purpose of the awards 'is to give recognition to outstanding Michigan artists and to thereby promote development of a supportive arts environment in the state". While no fixed number or dollar amount is specified under the program, last year the foundation awarded five cash grants of $2,500 each.

Nominees for the awards can be creative persons in any arts discipline who are approaching or are at the peak of their artistic careers. In addition, all nominees must have a substantial and visible association with the state of Michigan. Nominations should include detailed information on the artist-candidate, copies of critical evaluations, lists of performances, published works, exhibitions, significant achievements and other appropriate supporting material.

The actual award recipients will be selected by the foundation's Board of Directors, with the assistance of selected consultants. Forms may be obtained from Mrs. A.W. Rosch, Michigan Foundation for the Arts, 1200 Sixth Avenue, Detroit 48226, and returned postmarked no later than Oct. 15.

Think small . . . When planting fruit trees

If you're thinking of planting fruit trees in your backyard, think small — buy dwarfs. They're early bearing, easy to prune, spray and pick, and they require less space to grow than ordinary fruit trees.

Dwarf fruit trees are vegetatively propagated from rootstocks rather than seeds. Rooted cuttings are budded with the desired apple or other fruit variety to produce a dwarf tree in about 2½ years. This special process produces a much smaller tree that bears normal-sized fruit.

Dwarfs need the same sort of care that full-sized trees need — water, fertilizer, and disease and insect control programs — but their small size makes these chores somewhat easier. Spraying and harvesting can be done without ladders.

When buying dwarf apple trees, backyard fruit growers should look for two or three varieties. The ideal one, M.9, is attractive for its height and bears fruit the first or second year after planting. It may be in short supply, however. Other acceptable varieties are M. 26 and M. 7. They grow a few feet taller than M. 9 and bear later.

If you prefer pears to apples, ask your nursery operator for a dwarf pear that is grown on Quince-A rootstock. Peaches and plums usually are grown on sand cherry, Nankin cherry or St. Julien-A rootstocks.

Check for the rootstock on the tag on any tree you buy. Then you will know you're getting a genuine dwarf.

For further information on dwarf fruit trees and rootstocks, consult your county Cooperative Extension Service agent, or ask for the bulletin "Developing Dwarf Apple Trees," SIA 17.

State's religious heritage dates back to 1st settlers

Note: Religious Attractions" is the seventh in a series of 15 weekly articles on "Offbeat Michigan". These features are designed to encourage Michigan tourism on near-home travel.

Michigan's religious heritage dates from early missionaries and extends through generations of settlers who built places of worship while establishing the state's commerce and industry, according to Automobile Club of Michigan. That heritage is evidenced in some truly unique tourist attractions. Some are places of regularly scheduled worship, others are memorial shrines.

St. Anne's Church in Detroit is renowned for its religious relics as well as its beauty and place in the city's history. St. Anne's, oldest parish in Michigan and second oldest in the United States, contains the tomb of missionary priest Gabriel Richard.

An unusual floating religious attraction is the Vesser Cruise Ship...

Twin-spired St. Mark's Episcopal Church in Grand Rapids was the cathedral church of the Episcopal Diocese of Western Michigan until the diocesan center was moved to Kalamazoo in 1968. St. Mark's was built in 1841 from stone taken from the bed of the Grand River. The church's stone structure was rediscovered recently when a stucco overlay deteriorated and was removed. Visitors to Frankenmuth can visit St. Lorenz Lutheran Church, whose original log structure, built in 1845, was the first building there. The city grew around the church. The present structure, built in 1880, is noted for its old-world architecture and stained glass windows.

Midland, often called "the city of churches," offers tours of several of its 52 churches, many of which were designed by noted architect Alden Dow. They range in architectural style from Gothic to modern and include Protestant, Catholic, Jewish and non-denominational houses of worship.

St. Gregory's Abbey at Three Rivers is a community of priests and laymen of the Anglican Communion living under the Benedictine Rule. The abbey operates a large farm and has limited accommodations for guests. Services at the abbey are open to visitors.

At nearby Benton Harbor is the House of David, established in 1903 as the home of a sect claiming descent from the 12 lost tribes of Israel. It is supported largely by the farms and industries it operates in the area.

Thousands of visitors each year are drawn to Michigan's shrines in cities, along highways, on ski slopes and even under water.

St. Joseph's Shrine, on US-12 near Onsted in the Irish Hills, is an enlargement of an original stone chapel built by Irish Catholic settlers in 1854. It is noted for its outdoor stations of the cross and life-size crucifixion tableau.

The Pere Marquette Shrine, dedicated to the state's best-known missionary, is located just south of Ludington on Lake Shore Drive overlooking Pere Marquette Lake. The shrine marks the place where Pere Marquette died in 1675.

The Chapel in the Pines, at Hartwick Pines State Park near Grayling, is a serene and impressive spot in the midst of one of Michigan's last stands of virgin white pine. The chapel, reached by a short walk, is open for meditation amidst natural surroundings, far from the pressures of everyday living, but no worship services are held there.

Graham Chapel and nearby Our Lady of the Snows Shrine offer tranquil spots where skiers may rest or offer a prayer for safety on the slopes. The chapel is accessible by chair lift from Boyne Highlands near Harbor Springs during the winter and by private road or hiking path the rest of the year.

The world's largest crucifix holds a massive bronze figure of Christ nailed to a 72-foot-tall redwood cross atop a hill at Indian River. This Catholic shrine dominates the landscape on M-68 just east of I-75.

Perhaps the most unusual of Michigan's shrines in the Scuba Divers' Shrine, under 60 feet of water at the bottom of Little Traverse Bay near Petoskey. The life-size figure of Christ on the cross is nearly a ton of white Italian marble and black walnut.

Our Lady of the Woods Shrine in downtown Mio is an open-air memorial. This Catholic shrine is a composite of the major Marian shrines of the world. Sunday mass is offered there during the summer.

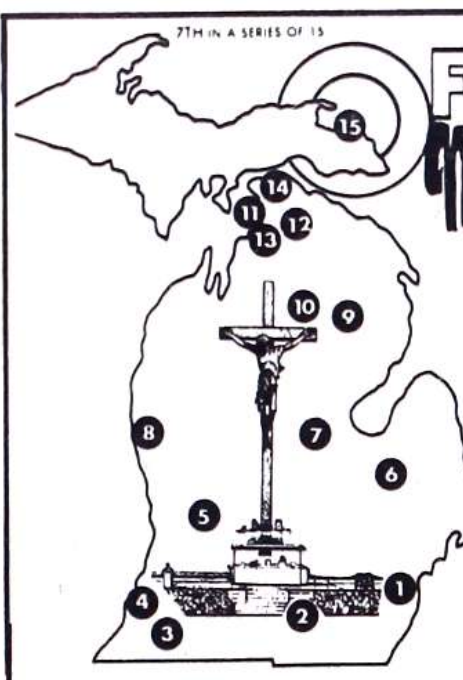

An unusual floating religious attraction is the Vesper Cruise Ship at Mackinaw City. The vessel sails out into the Straits of Mackinac at 8 p.m. every Sunday during July and August with several hundred worshippers of all faiths aboard.

Visitors can park their cars at the Tower Shrine of the Missionaries at Sault Ste. Marie and travel by elevator to the top of the 210-foot-tall memorial to Michigan's early missionary explorers. Historical displays and exhibits tell of the work of those pioneers and the development of the area. The shrine is open May through October.

7TH IN A SERIES OF 15

OFFBEAT Michigan

Religious Attractions in Michigan stand as symbols of strength and often represent the heritage of ethnic groups. While some are located in cities, others are atop tall hills, in woods or even under water. Because of their unique features, many religious shrines attract thousands of sightseers and worshippers each year.

Marceau tops family series lineup at MH

Marcel Marceau, The Blackstone Magic Show, "The Nutcracker" Ballet and the amazing Mummenschanz are the four attractions lined up by Detroit's historic Music Hall Center to create its Family Series of shows for the 1978-79 Season.

Convenient Sunday performances and half-price season tickets for children are available for theater-goers to this series.

Music Hall manager Alan Lichtenstein said: "Music Hall's family-oriented shows last season were so popular that we decided to make it a regular part of our programming plans. Our goal is to present shows that adults and children can enjoy together — good quality live entertainment that won't bore the grown-ups or the kids. I think we've created a series that accomplishes our aim."

The series opens Nov. 26 with the Blackstone Magic Show, starring Harry Blackstone Jr. The show is an extravaganza of music, dancers, live animals and, of course, mystifying, logic-defying illusions by one of the masters of magic.

On Dec. 10 the highly-accomplished Eglevsky Ballet Company will perform "The Nutcracker" as a dazzling fantasy perfect for the holiday season.

World-renowned pantomime artist Marcel Marceau will present a group of skits from his repertoire especially appropriate for youngsters on March 4. Considered a genius by many actors and dancers, Marceau is a spell-binding performer without peer.

The final Family Series attraction is the Mummenschanz — those silent enchanters whose use of clay, toilet paper and vinyl blobs to create witty, original theater has captured the imagination of audiences from Europe to California. The Mummenschanz will present their Family Series performance on March 11.

Although each attraction in Music Hall's Family Series will appear at the theater for a week-long engagement, season ticket buyers for these specific Sunday shows will be able to save more than 15 percent over single ticket prices. More information can be obtained by writing the Music Hall Subscription Office, 350 Madison Avenue, Detroit, 48226, or by calling 963-6943.

Park program explores ponds

A pond study program entitled "The Pond — A Water Wilderness" will be held at the nature center of Kensington Metropark near Milford on Sunday at 9 a.m.

Since ponds serve as the homes for an abundance of plant and animal life, they are natural places to study ecology, food chains and adaptations. With the aid of dip-nets and buckets, some animals and plants will be collected for a better look into their lifestyles and relationships in the pond.

This 2-hour program is free, but advance registration is required. Participants should wear waterproof footwear.

Schwartz named Wayne cage coach

STEVE SCHWARTZ

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

If Steve Schwartz solves cage problems the way he does mathematics, Wayne Memorial won't have to worry about its basketball fortunes.

Schwartz this week was named as Wayne High's head basketball coach, replacing Chuck Herry who resigned recently to accept a similar position at Dearborn Divine Child.

The 27-year-old Schwartz, who is a Wayne St. Mary's product and a graduate of the University of Michigan, served as the reserve coach a year ago. His team compiled an impressive 15-5 record and won the Great Lakes 8 Conference title with a 12-2 mark. In fact the Zebra reserves had a 11-game conference winning streak going for them before they dropped their first game.

Schwartz is noted for his statistical and analytical acuity. He was a special assistant to U of M's Sports Information Director Will Perry and worked in the department as a student assistant for three years, compiling stats for various sports.

In September of 1972, Schwartz was hired as a math teacher and ninth grade basketball coach at Franklin Junior High in the Wayne-Westland Community School District. In 1975 he transferred to Wayne Memorial where he continued to teach math and was named as assistant varsity basketball coach to then head coach, Bill Hawley.

As a prep, Schwartz earned eight letters at St. Mary's where he was a standout in basketball, football and baseball.

"I'm very pleased to get this chance to coach both the girls as well as boys' varsity cage teams," said Schwartz. "And it definitely will be a challenge, especially our boys' team. We lack height and are inexperienced, in fact we will have only three returning players off of last year's team. But, our kids have already demonstrated a great desire to play and displayed it in the summer league. I feel our forte will be our defense."

Wayne's tallest cager will be 6-4 junior forward John Hebner. The three holdovers from last year's squad include Kyle Poteau, Kelvin Lee and Mark Zeronia.

Schwartz and his wife, Donna Jean, make their home in Wayne. They have two small children: Matthew, who recently turned two, and Rosemary, who checked in on May 15 at 1:25 p.m., weighing 7 pounds and three ounces.

Like we said, Schwartz is always ready with the stats.

And his meticulous ways may be just what the doctor ordered to rev up a sputtering Wayne cage machine.

Wake of Proposition 13

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

The holidays are over and back to work:

The passage of Proposition 13 may have sounded the knell on high school and junior high school sports in the beautiful state of California and the repercussions could be felt here.

If the state can't raise money to do the things a state was created to do, then who is going to give second thoughts about prep sports?

The lamentable situation of "no money, no services," inevitably will filter into the high schools and junior highs whose very existence depends upon taxes.

And one can only speculate what will happen here in Michigan if the Tisch Amendment gets on the ballot and passes in Michigan. It's an already accepted policy that when a school district is financially hurting the basics stay and the "auxiliary" programs, such as sports, go first.

It is obvious that high school sports, as the Over 35 generation has known it, will go through some drastic changes during this transition - and I doubt it will be for the better.

Meanwhile, Romulus appears to have solved some of its problems in the area of varsity athletics. When Bill Hardy, the newly-selected athletic director, took over he vowed that he wanted a "complete and total athletic program for not only the boys but the girls."

And apparently Hardy, a former college and high school football coach, has convinced the board of education that that is the only way to go.

"Last year we didn't have girls' programs in basketball, volleyball, track and field or softball," said Hardy, "but I am very happy to announce that the board has agreed to support these programs for the coming school year."

Hardy went on to say, "that one of the conditions that I had agreed to when I accepted this job was that we were going to build a total program, get a wider base of our people involved and this is one step in that direction."

Hardy also said that he is on the verge of recommending one of the four candidates for the varsity football coaching job to the board.

The board met Tuesday night and reportedly one of the items on the agenda was to approve the hiring of a grid coach.

The area may have another pro football player this coming season if everything works out for Jimmy Hall, the former Robichaud star who set several records as a defensive halfback for Coach Bob Yauck.

Hall, who played for Eastern Michigan University last season and was moved to an end position, is invading the Minnesota Vikings' camp as a free agent.

According to the Huron coaching staff, the Vikings are very much interested in the 5-9, 165-pound Hall "who would be used on the specialty units, punt return and kickoff return squads."

Steve Schwartz, named last week as Wayne Memorial's head basketball coach, apparently started his new job on a winning note. The kids on the team "needed a new pair of shoes" and instead of heading for Las Vegas or New Jersey, Schwartz and the Zebras asked fans to get their cars washed.

"It was our most successful car wash ever," Schwartz announced. "And all of the proceeds will be put in the basketball fund. Our teams, both girls and boys, need basketball shoes and that's the reason we needed to raise the money."

Schwartz said "he and the players would like to thank all of the patrons who took time out to wash their cars last week, and extended a special thanks to John's Mobil Station for the donation of space and water."

A final note: golfers who are contemplating on playing in the July 22-23 City Championship Golf Tournament shouldn't wait until deadline (Tuesday, July 18) to get their registration and checks into our office. The list of names who have already entered (see third sports page) are those who have entered as of Monday and there are over 50 entries. Since Fellows Creek management has limited the field to 100, we're going to have abide by their wishes.

If there are any questions, please contact the sports desk. Thank you.

Westland Major loop leader 'untouchable?'

While undefeated Studio Lounge rested on its 12-game winning streak, Big Bill's made sure that the Westland Men's Major League softball leaders didn't get too comfortable.

Bill's scored 12 runs in the first two innings and buried Jack's Party Store 17-5 to stay close behind Studio Lounge which had the week off.

Steve Patterson gave up a total of eight hits — two each to Tim Kennedy, Bob Fields and Rick Walden — to lift Bill's to their 11th victory in 12 starts. Patterson received ample hitting support from Perry Pappas, Bob Killingbeck and Tim Abramski who accounted for half of the winner's 18 hits.

Pappas blasted two balls over the fence for homers and also doubled, while Killingbeck drilled one over-the-fence and turned in with a single and double, just missing the "cycle" by a triple. Abramski also placed one over the fence and chipped in two other hits.

Shope Around tightened its grip on third place as it overpowered R.G. Castelli Realtors 22-3. Larry Holt turned in a five-hitter with Paul Poslusny collecting two singles, Jim Griffin banging out a run-scoring triple and Mark Wilson also getting a run-scoring single for the losers.

Guy Burke was rough on loser Kim Liddy who served up three-over-the-fence homers to the slugger. Ed Ryan knocked in three runs on a roundtripper, triple and two singles while Holt aided his cause with a pair of singles, a double and triple.

Metro Maintenance Supply spotted Krajenke Auto four runs in the first inning but came back with two in that inning and five more in the next to win a 19-9 battle from their rivals. The Kenyons - Rick Barry and Bill - led the assault on losing pitcher Tom Tresick who gave up a homer, triple, single and three RBIs to Rick while Barry checked in with a single, double and triple. Bill had a pair of singles.

Winner Charlie Meyers was rapped for a homer and single by Jim Garron, while Cliff Davidson had three singles and Steve Longway bagged two singles for the losers.

Turning pro

While his father, Robert, and mother, Lottie, look on, Wayne's super pitcher, Jimmy Canfield, inks a contract that makes him the valuable property of the Kansas City Royals. Canfield, unbeaten in his senior year and also owner of many of Wayne's pitching records, decided to turn pro and accepted the Royals' offer and signed his contract last week. He'll begin his professional baseball career in the Royals' farm system in Sarasota, an instructional league.

Metro Maintenance Supply picked up its seventh win in 13 starts by outlasting the Rockets 16-15 in a see-sawing affair. Metro took a 3-0 lead off of loser Bob Roberts whose team erupted for 10 runs in the fourth and couldn't hang on. Metro replied with eight runs in the fifth, two in the sixth and scored the decisive three runs in the top of the seventh.

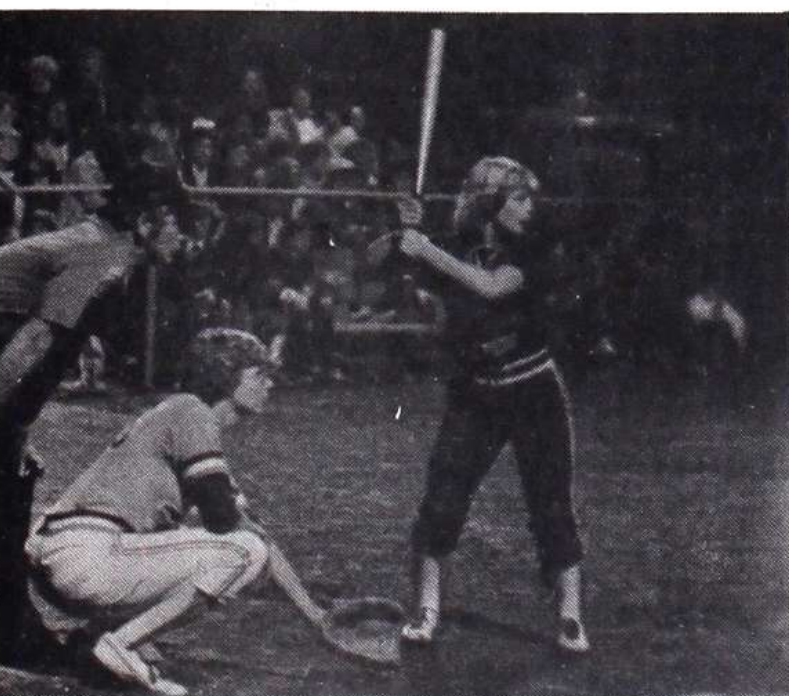

Jim Taylor and Meyers had productive performances at the plate. Taylor got four singles and two RBIs, while Meyers also knocked in two runs and scored four times on three singles and a triple. Mate Barry Kempton finished with three hits.

John Irwin's bat accounted four for RBIs as he stroked the game's lone homer. He also tripled and singled. Tom Lafortune had a single and double and drove in two runs and Jim Hawkins finished with a couple of singles.

Meanwhile, there is a neck-to-neck race in both the Minor-Red Division and the Minor Blue Division as four undefeated teams brace for the stretch run.

Joe Thomas, which has one more victory than the 6-0 Century 21 crew, will have to settle their difference soon.

Poised for action

All set for the pitch is Wayne's Kim Schwartz who helped Big Bill's Sporting Goods win a key 13-3 decision over Garden City Sports and by doing so qualify for the World's Women's Softball Invitational to be held during the Labor Day Weekend in Southgate.

Though they finished third, Big Bill's of Wayne qualified for the prestigious World Women's Softball Invitational which will be held over the Labor Day Weekend in Southgate.

Bill's ticket to the world tournament was a 13-3 victory over Garden City Sports Shop which sealed third place for the local softballers at the inaugural Big Bill's Women's Slow-Pitch Tournament staged last week at Lenny Anderson Field in Wayne.

Little Caesar's made good use of nine hits to jump Taylor Sporting Goods in the championship game, 7-4, to capture the tournament title. That game was staged at 4 a.m. Sunday because many of the games were delayed due to rains.

In the duel for third place, Big Bill's struck for five runs in the first inning to back up Renee Burnie's seven-hit pitching performance which was good enough to stop Garden City.

Patti Silye, who played a sterling game on defense, also contributed three hits. The hard-hitting short-stop laced three singles and scored two runs. Teammate Mary Crecholo drilled a homer and triple while Tee Gibson belted a double and triple. Renee Burnie also chipped in three singles.

Garden City, which broke up a string of four scoreless innings, put two runs on the board in the fifth inning and collected its final run in the seventh. Val Trencik latched on to two of Garden City's seven hits.

Wayne launched the tournament with a 7-4 victory over Adray Appliance as Ms. Gibson paced a 14-hit assault with three singles and Ms. Silye smacked two hits. After knocking off Garden City, Wayne ran up against a tough Little Caesar's contingent and bowed 14-5 as the winners pounded out 22 hits.

Caesar's met Taylor in the semi-final round and was forced to play an extra inning affair which lasted nine innings. The champs settled the issue with a three-run surge in the ninth.

Taylor drew first blood as it put a run on the boards in the first inning, but winning pitcher Marsh Lockowski buckled down and held her rivals scoreless for the next eight innings. Caesar's got the equalizer in the fourth.

Ms. Lockowski helped her cause in this one with a pair of singles and a double and she also scored two of the runs.

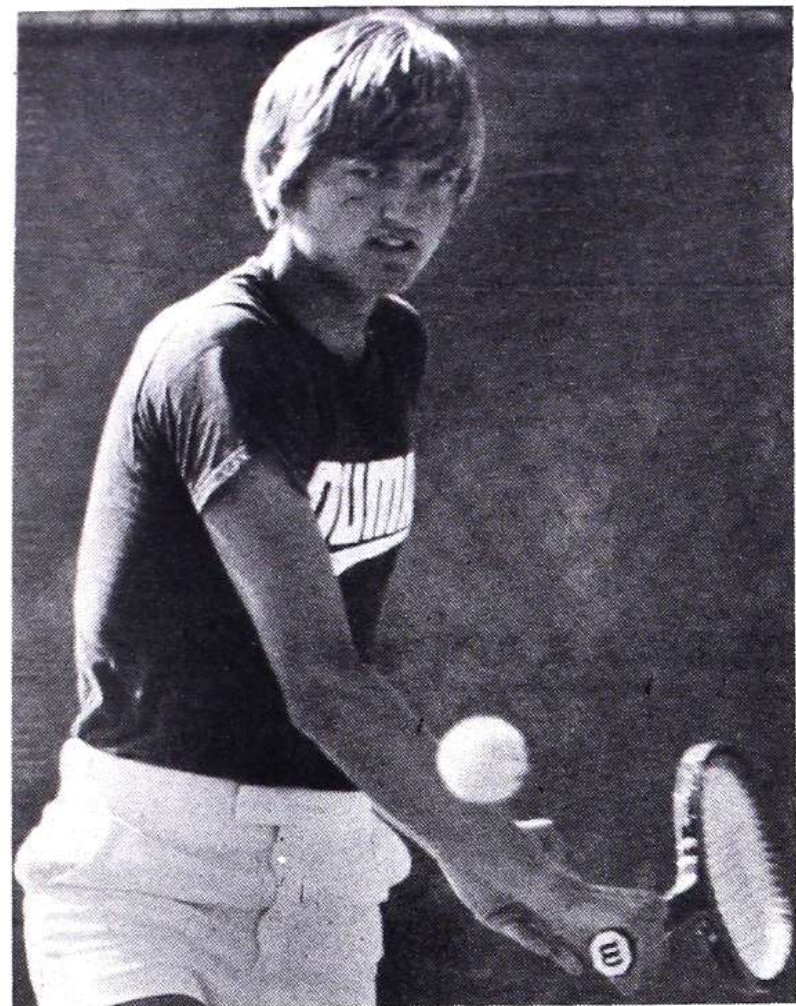

Lynn Putman's homer accounted for Taylor's lone run.

In the battle for the title, Caesar's again was forced to play catchup. After Taylor scored in the opening inning, Caesar's came back in the bottom of the second to take a 2-1 lead, but Taylor retaliated with three runs in the third to go ahead 4-

2. Caesar's tied it up in that inning with two runs and went ahead for good in the fourth with a two-run outburst. They added an insurance run in the fifth.

The championship and runnerup teams were awarded trophies and since Caesar's and Taylor Sporting Goods had previously clinched berths for the world tournament, it opened the door for the tournament's third place team to also get an invitational.

After the action, coaches voted on an All-Tournament team and Marsha Lockowski was named the MVP. Other All-Stars included Big Bill's Patti Silye and Tee Gibson, at shortstop and third base, respectively, Little Caesar's Dottie Davis, Carol Kavalavski, Sherry Joris, Pam Rendine, and Taylor's Jackie Muggins, Carmen King, Lynn Putman, Adray's Amy Davis, Garden City's Val Trencik and Gail Peacock (Goodnough).

Burger King takes two from Griffin's

The pieces are beginning to fall into place for manager George Yakel and Burger King.

Yakel had a near perfect week in the Adray League as the local ball club swept both ends of a doubleheader from league-leading Griffin, played tough Redford Adray to a curfew-abbreviated 4-4 tie and received superb performances from its players at the annual Adray All-Stars Game held Monday at Tiger Stadium.

The Livonia Adray All-Stars managed to overcome its nemesis, Detroit, 11-5, to snap a six-game losing streak to their arch-rivals.

Craig Walker, who last month was named to the ANP's All-Area team, contributed three hits in three appearances at the plate. He played five innings, while Mark Lipinski, an All-Area candidate from Cherry Hill, came up with two sterling defensive plays and Randy Pittman, of Wayne Memorial fame, handled the second basemen chores for the Livonians.

"The area was well represented at Tiger Stadium," said Yakel who pointed out that "this was the first time that the local Adray team had beaten the Detroiters in six years."

and stood behind league champ Riverview (8-2), Wyandotte (6-4), Monroe (6-4) Fordson (6-4) in the final standings. Lincoln Park, the only other league team to field a squad was winless in 10 outings.

Miss Trayner batted .500 in her senior year as she rapped out 18 hits in 36 appearances at the plate. She had seven doubles, a triple and of 52 fielding opportunities didn't commit a single error. She also chipped in 15 RBIs and stole successfully five times. Miss Gorshek batted .333 in her initial varsity season and also drew 13 bases on balls for a nine of 27 batting year. She has the honor of being the lone sophomore to wear a Zebra softball uniform.

Tastee Freez breezes to 9th

Unleashing a 23-hit assault on Jake's Lounge, undefeated Tastee Freez shut out its Wayne Women's Softball League rival 27-0 for its ninth consecutive victory of the current campaign.

The victory enabled the front-runner to maintain its one-game lead over runner-up, J & D Auto, which also posted a shutout over Earl Keim 10-0 to keep its title hopes alive. J & D has compiled an 8-1 record.

Renee Birney faced only 22 batters as Tastee Freez' defense pulled off two double plays to back up their hurler's three-hit pitching efforts. Renee gave up harmless singles to Cindy Komraus, Pam Fitzgerald and Cheryl Pryor.

Meanwhile, Kim Schwartz, Brenda Schwartz and Birney came through with three hits apiece and Wendy Reynolds drilled a pair of triples and accounted for three RBIs.

Only two Earl Keim runners reached base against J & D whose pitcher, Mary Porter, twirled a one-hitter. Terri Richardson ruined Porter's bid for a no-hitter when she stroked a single in the second inning.

Porter helped her cause along with the only homer of the game, while Cheryl Soltice, who had a single and triple, Lou Hoeft and Beth Johnson each had two hits.

J & D also won a crucial 6-2 game

Westland host Ruth tourneys

Westland, which captured a state Babe Ruth title a year ago, will begin the defense of its crown beginning on Friday.

"We have been designated as the host city for a couple of Babe Ruth tournaments," said Tom Potts, president of the Westland Youth Athletic Association. "And, beginning on Friday, fans will be able to see some of the finest Babe Ruth teams in the state in our city."

The tournament will be staged beginning at 3:30 p.m. at Jaycees Park on Friday and continue until Monday when the championship will be decided.

Westland has two teams in the 13-year-old bracket: the AAA which won the state title a year ago, and the AA. Two teams from West 7, along with teams from Lincoln Park and Northwest Detroit (A & B) also covet the district title.

The same cities will be represented in the Babe Ruth 15-year-old division and the teams again will see action at Jaycees Park.

from third place occupant, Turner and Demmer, which rallied for two runs in the third inning to make it close. J & D's Sharon McMasters hammered a homer and turned in with three other hits, and Ms. Soltice banged out four singles while Hoeft and Johnson each split four hits.

Winning pitcher Mowana Burton served up a run-scoring single to Sarah Grider, while Maureen McClintosh also singled home a run.

Thomas chalked up its seventh victory in as many starts by plastering Jamie's 19-8 as winning pitcher Joe Cooley was staked to a lopsided 12-0 lead after 3½ innings. Jamie's looked as if it was going to make a game of it in the bottom of the fourth when it struck for six runs, but that is about all the fight it had in it.

Phil Pepera had two hits while Scott Hare and Tom Hudson drove home runs with singles for the losers.

Losing hurler Gary Davis served up two homers, a single and a double to Scott Brown while Bob Thaxton belted four singles and Bob Ferrari socked a pair of singles and a double for the winners.

Century 21 showed winless cellar dweller, Tom Macerie & Sons, why it is considered one of the top teams in the league as the unbeaten Centurions crushed their rivals 26-1 behind Bob Fullerton's five-hit pitching. Two of those hits went to Don Skelton, while Steve Perrie knocked in the lone Macerie run.

Ray Fox had five hits, including a double and four RBIs for the winners and Brian Hopton also collected four RBIs and four hits off of loser Tony Kierschke. Rick Korzon checked in with a couple of singles, a double and a triple.

Westside Rusproofing held off Tri-Way Controls 14-8 as Dick Westerlund connected for two homers and four RBIs off of losing pitcher Myron Love. Love also gave up four hits, including a triple and double to Paul Tabaka and Bob Johnson laced a double and two singles for the winners.

Rick Isabell and Dale Schacht had two hits for the losers. One of Schacht's hits went for a four-bagger. Mike Dargan belted two singles.

Crabbie Joe's came up with six runs in the third inning and went on to beat All-Star Sports 14-4 thanks to homers by Tim Reilly and Greg Guimno who had three and two RBIs respectively off of loser Doug Morrison. Morrison also gave up a pair of doubles to Tom Hartzell.

Ken Bridges had a single and double, Pat Dunn homered and singled while Gary Swain got to winner Ron Rosenburg for two hits.

Tri-Way Control was no match for Century 21 who spotted the losers three runs in the first inning before going on to beat their rivals 21-9. Steve Wilson looked good at the plate against losing pitcher Dennis Jackson who gave up a pair of doubles, a triple, homer and three RBIs to the slugger. Don Thomas turned in with three doubles and Chris Drake had three singles with both getting two RBIs for the winners.

Fullerton, the winning hurler, was tagged for a homer by Dave Abbe who also had two singles. Brad Burger and John Batey split four singles.

In one of the closest games of the week, Who Cares proved it cares as they edged Macerie's in an eight inning pitcher's duel between Ted Rize and Tony Kierschke.

Rize became the winner when Who Losing pitcher was Pat Bledsoe.

A 13-run first inning explosion powered Commercial Brake past Unistrut, 14-0, in their matchup last week. Winning hurler Darlene Dietz received ample hitting support from Theresa Callegan, who had four singles, Martha Callegan, who rapped out three hits, and Terri Lovilts who had two singles. Losing pitcher Sheri Fargo gave up a total of 19 hits.

Cares got a game-winning single from Keith Trudell. Teammate John Vosloh chipped in with two singles.

Macerie's looked as if it was going to snap its six-game losing streak when it put single runs on the board in the fourth, fifth and sixth. But Who Cares narrowed the margin to 3-2 in the bottom of the sixth then tied it up in the seventh.

Erik Radcliffe paced the losers with three hits and teammate Steve Perrie drilled a homer and singled while Ken Forbes added a triple and single.

In the only other Red Division game, Playmate Lounge erupted for five runs in the fifth en route to a 14-9 victory over Westside Rustproofing. Wimer Jeff Anderson was touched for a homer and single by Dick Westerlund. Dave Gorsjek and Dave Mills each had two hits.

Canton women's golf race remains close

After seven weeks of play, the Canton Women's Golf League is still too close to call. Three golfers - Bev Green, Lou Skotzte and Silvia Dickinson share the lead.

Ms. Green, who won the title a year ago, hasn't been able to shake Skotzte or Dickinson off her heels. All three golfers have amassed 32 points.

Betty Williams holds down the fourth place with 29 points, while Kay Nichols and Mary Kay Frey are warming up to the Fellows Creek Golf course as they posted their best rounds of the season, shooting 44 and 46, respectively.

Here are the point spreads for the rest of the field: Pauline Pryor 28, Helen McGee 27, Mary Kay Frey 26, Estelle Heidt 25, Tiiu Himmelberger

J&D eyes rematch with unbeaten Studio

With J & D Auto breathing down their necks, Studio Lounge continued to hold down the top spot in the Westland Women's Softball League last week.

The frontrunning Studio crew bombed Crestwood Dodge 24-1 for its seventh consecutive victory in as many starts this season. Winning pitcher Sharon Turflinger turned in a seven-hitter as her teammates banded out 29 hits.

Ms. Turflinger looked good at the plate as well as the mound, helping her cause with a homer, a couple of doubles and two singles which paved the way for four runs batted in. Jo Snow rapped out four singles and three RBIs, while Jill Barrick knocked in five runs on three singles and a triple for the winners.

Joyce Du Pont and Edwina Stromski split four hits and Rona Bibeau batted in a run with her single for the losers as Bev Liverance was charged with the loss.

J & D played an abbreviated "time limit" game with Westland Lock & Key which fell 15-1 to the second place team. Winning pitcher Judy Cousineau lost a rare shutout bid when she gave up a run in the second inning.

But the losers got their share of hits - in fact they teed off on Cousineau for 10 hits including a roundtripper by Debbie Whitson. Karen Holt laced three singles and Carmen Borg got aboard twice on singles for Lock & Key.

However, J & D leaped to a 7-1 lead after two innings and the outcome was never in doubt after that. Pat Gross checked in with a triple and a pair of singles for two RBIs, while Shelly Arner had a single and triple for two runs batted in and Lynn Webb bagged two singles.

VFW Bova Post has a share of third place thanks to a 10-4 shellacking of Johnny Shell's which occupied that position all alone before the encounter. Paula Collins and Kary Beteau each had homers for the winners with Ms. Beteau also stroking two doubles. Mary Brown chipped in with three hits as VFW padded its record to 5-2.

Winning pitcher Sheryl Chomiak gave up 10 hits, two each to Nancy McManhon and Jan Anzalone who took the loss. Sheryl Shaffer belted a run-scoring single for the losers.

Token Lounge snapped a six-game losing streak and picked up its first victory of the season as they turned back the Power Packs 16-8 in a game cut short because of the time limit rule. The Pack exploded for seven runs in the first inning off of winning hurler Barb Frank who then settled down and gave up only one more run the rest of the way.

Token got excellent hitting from Dana Retich who drilled a homer, double and single for four runs batted in, while Rita Midstowski also missed hitting for the cycle when she failed to get a homer off of loser Barb McRoberts. Bobbie Helmer latched on to three singles for the winners.

Ms. Frank served up two singles each to Sandy Clarke, McRoberts and Barb Pert.

In the only other game reported in, Hudson's of Westland pounded Westway Trucking 17-1 in another game stopped because of the time limit. Winning pitcher Doris Madar was tagged for nine hits, two singles apiece to Linda Cwiek, Colleen Coursey and Linda Grunstead.

Loser Pam Cramer had her problems with Barb Roth who blasted a pair of homers, doubled and singled in a total of seven runs.

Riding high

Crestwood Dodge shifts into title gear

Erupting for 11 runs in the last two innings, undefeated Crestwood Dodge crushed Berry's Appliance 20-5 for its sixth consecutive victory in the Westland Men's Minor (White Division) League.

The victory provided the league-leader with a half-game cushion over once-defeated Westland Florists which came from behind to stop a determined Pedagogues team, 17-10, after spotting the losers eight runs in the opening frame.

Crestwood, though, had little trouble with the fifth place Berry Appliance crew which is playing .500 (3-3) ball for the season. The winners scored four times in the first inning and built up a 7-3 lead after three innings to coast to victory. Winning pitcher Paul Campbell served up two hits, including a double and triple to Mike Terry who accounted for two of the 10 Berry runs. Campbell also was touched for two hits by Jeff Gillespie and Steve Frayer.

John Sampson got to loser Darryl Perkins for seven runs batted in thanks to a pair of singles, a double and triple, while mate Randy Temple was equally effective with his bat, pounding out three singles, a double and triple for two RBIs.

Ed Schweizer hit for the cycle off of Perkins who gave up five RBIs to the Dodge slugger.

Meanwhile, pitcher Pat Nalley failed to hold on to an 8-1 first inning lead against the florist who came back for three runs in both the second and third innings and went ahead for good with a four-run surge in the fourth. A five-run sixth inning sealed the victory.

Nalley had his troubles with Bob Mijal who came through for the winners with a homer, triple and single that put four runs on the board; Clarke Burns rapped a couple of doubles and a single while Bill Langley belted three triples and counted five RBIs.

Mijal, who received credit for the win, was hit hard by Lynn LeBlack and Bob Kruse, each with three hits and two RBIs, and Rick Dickerman who socked four singles and turned in with a pair of runs batted in.

B.J.'s Lounge exploded for six runs in the sixth to break open a close game with the Silver Bullets and won its first of the season 10-4. Bullet hurler Mark Rustin was tagged for three runs in the opening inning but his mates got two of them back in that inning. The losers tied the game at 4-4 in the bottom of the fifth, but B.J.'s six-run outburst went unanswered by the losers in the last two innings.

Don Miller had four of the 17 hits off of Rustin while Vic Tomlin and Kurt Bestseller split four singles.

Winner Tom Cameron was touched for a roundtripper and a single by Chris Rowe and Mike Brown socked a pair of singles.

In a suspenseful 5-4 McCurdy Optical victory over M & R Collision, winning pitcher Ed Spontack was working on a shutout when M & R came alive in the sixth and scored all of their runs in that inning to take the lead, 4-3, but McCurdy came back with two decisive runs in the bottom of that inning to chalk up their fifth win in six starts and stay in the title picture.

Spontack helped his cause with a pair of singles and scored twice while mates Ed Tolson and Doug Schaffer had two and one hit, respectively, off of loser Dave Derminer.

Bill Buckner led the losers with two hits and an RBI while both Harry Miller and Jim Stephson had RBI singles.

If a door, hood, or trunk lid on the family car squeaks when it opens shut, apply a stick of stainless silicone lubricant to all hinges. If the noises persist, hold a piece of stiff material—a credit card, for example—across the gap where the door, hood, or trunk lid meets the body. Determine if the surfaces are flush and in line. An examination of the chrome molding may also indicate improper alignment. If the parts are out of line, refer to the service manual before adjusting the hinges, or have a service center or body shop do the job.

Take advantage of the fully-equipped machine shop at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan, Inkster, for all types of engine repair and machine shop work. Our service is fast, efficient, and reasonably priced. All work is done by experienced mechanics who do all phases of machine work. We handle just about any size engine from motorcycle to Diesel, including marine, agricultural, industrial, automotive, etc. We also offer a complete inventory of parts and accessories for both foreign and domestic cars. Call KOSIN'S at 563-3894. We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M. Bank Americard and Master Charge are honored.

ROTARY'S ANNUAL DISTRICT CONFERENCE BOYNE MOUNTAIN

Rotary District governor

Outstanding Rotarian of the Year

That man in the center with the big smile on his face and the large gold cup in his grasp is Donald Juchartz, a member of Belleville Rotary Club. Why is this man smiling? He's recipient of a special award, given out for the first time this year by his District 640 of Rotary International. Juchartz is being congratulated by Jack Harmes (left) of the Redford club, and Gerald Ebmeyer (right) district governor of the 47-club district, as he receives the cup at the recent district conference at Boyne Mountain. Juchartz was honored as the man of the year who best exemplifies the Rotary service concept.

Canton Rotary saluted

The president of Canton Rotary Club, John Schwartz, (left) recently accepted a 1977 Golden Service Award from District Governor Gerald Ebmeyer for the work the Canton club did promoting cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR). The club has aided in the teaching of the life saving technique by purchasing a "resuscitator Annie" life-sized dummy for the Canton Fire Department to use in teaching (CPR). Schwartz and other Rotarians attended the District 640 conference that ended Sunday, at Boyne Mountain. Of the 47 clubs in District 640, only five were honored with Golden Service Awards.

Rotary fellowship

An important part of the recent District 640 annual conference, held at Boyne Mountain, was the spirit of fellowship and sharing of experiences. Club members and their wives attended the annual gathering to end one Rotary year and begin another. Some 47 clubs are included

A Rotary fellow

One of the highest honors that can be given a member of Rotary International is membership in that elite group known as "Rotary Fellows," an honor bestowed on Romulus club member Mickey Reel (left) at the recent annual Rotary District 640 Conference in Boyne Mountain. Presenting the honor to Reel was District Governor Gerald Ebmeyer, a Westland Rotarian who has for the past year been governor of the 47-club district. The Paul Harris Fellow award is an honor given the member by his own club, when they donate $1,000 in his name to the Rotary scholarship fund.

The recent conference of District 640 Rotary Club members marked an ending for one district governor, and the beginning for another. The new governor, who will take the job over on July 1, is Romulus chapter member Jason Lovette (center), who is shaking hands with outgoing Governor visited India earlier this year as the other half of the "exchange;" Lovette; Ebmeyer and Harold Rediske, conference chairman from the Wayne Rotary club, which planned and hosted the conference at Boyne Mountain.

Telling tales

Wayne Rotarian George Straschnov had tales to tell the gathering of Rotarians at a recent convention of some 500 men and their wives for the District 640 annual conference. Straschnov, Wayne club president, travelled to India in January as part of an "exchange" with Rotary District 329 and spoke to fellow Rotarians about the trip. The Indian half of the exchange, Professor Suren De, visited the conference, held at Boyne Mountain and sponsored by the Wayne Club for all of the 47 clubs in District 640.

Boyne Mountain visitors

Bill Kuhlman (from left), Murray Millar, Ken Marshall and Keith Millar were among hundreds of Rotarians from District 640 who visited Boyne Mountain recently to attend the district's annual conference. The 4-day event was filled with opportunities to hear about Rotary activities through the past year, and plan for the future. The 62nd annual conference was planned by the Wayne Club.

A very good year

The year as Rotary District 640 governor will end on July 1 for Westland Rotarian Gerald Ebmeyer (right). His year of service, as coordinator of 47 clubs in southeastern Michigan and Essex County in Ont., was recognized at the recent annual conference held at Boyne Mountain and attended by 500 members and wives. The conference was hosted by the Wayne Rotary Club, chairman Harold Rediske. Above, Wayne club president George Straschnov congratulated Ebmeyer on his achievements as governor. Also honoring Ebmeyer were the State House of Representatives and Senate, in separate resolutions presented to governor "Ger" at the conference.

Vacation packing:

Practical 'filling' for you RV, camper

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

Your two-week summer vacation is fast approaching. You've picked the spot where you and your family will spend the weeks you've been looking forward to all year.

It's time to load up your camper, trailer, or recreational vehicle.

Even if you are one of those "free spirits" who abhor the idea of making a list, any list, an experienced packer and traveller will tell you that now is the time to set aside that prejudice and write your items down on paper.

Not only can you check off each item as it is packed, but if you make the list a couple of weeks ahead of time, you'll find yourself remembering a few items each day that you can add. By the time you leave, you can be pretty sure that all is where it should be.

Of course, at the top of any vacation list is the provision to stop delivery of mail, newspapers and other collectibles, and to set up light timers in the house. Enlisting the aid of a neighbor to give your house a lived-in look and keep an eye on it, and calling the information in to the local police, also is a good idea.

Naturally, everyone in the family will begin personal packing. A handy, space-saving method of packing that some travelers find a good idea is to give each child a beer case, the kind with the closeable top, that can be packed with clothes and easily stored in a camper, trailer or recreational vehicle.

All types of weather must be considered, no matter where you're going. Sunny days sometimes turn into chilly nights. Make sure your clothes are functional and versatile.

While each member of the family is selecting his or her wardrobe the big job will be equipping your trailer, camper or RV.

Food is number one. Stock up on plenty of canned goods, and make sure there is extra in case you're stuck somewhere. Powdered milk and other powdered beverages should be included, and it's also a good idea to take your own water in large gallon jugs. Many youngsters can get sick on "strange" water, and at other times water is not available.

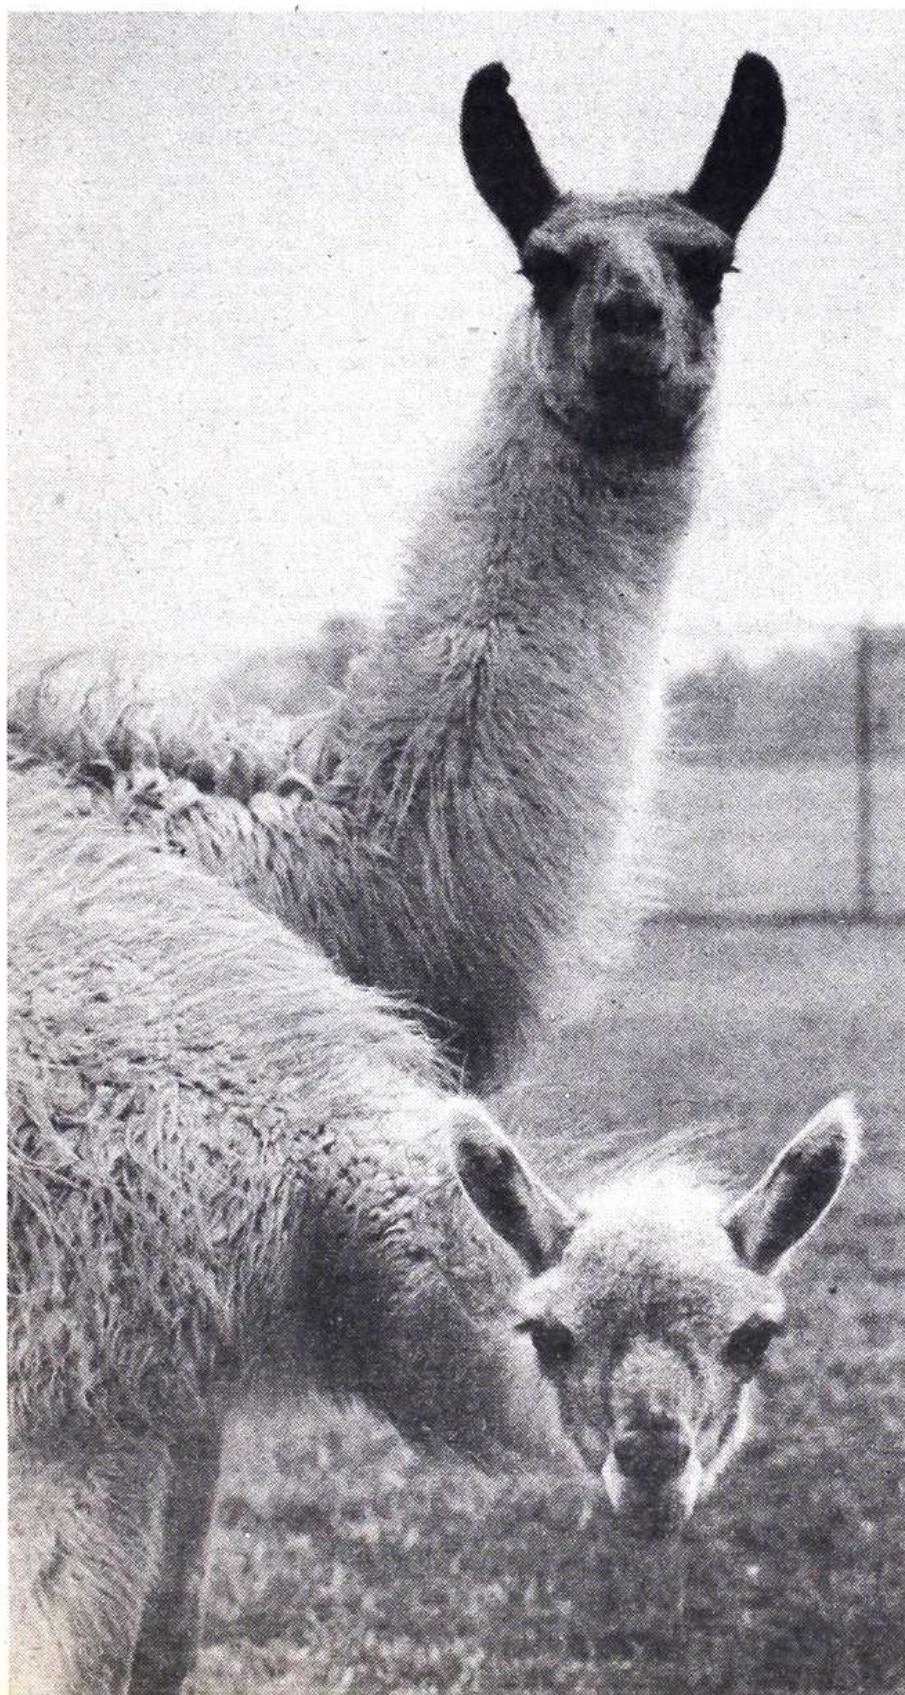

Paper plates and disposable utensils can make the whole venture easier at cleanup time, too.

Your home away from home should be stocked with a supply of candles and matches, flashlights, a battery operated radio and wind-up alarm clock, for those times when you may be away from electricity. Camp lanterns and stoves, and a small grill and charcoal also may come in handy, even if you have cooking facilities in your camper.

Don't forget the little things — first aid kit, tweezers, can opener, spare light bulbs and fuses, cooking utensils. You may want to take a clothesline and pins, a small set of essential tools (screwdriver, pliers, wrench, hammer), air pump and cooler. Insect repellent should be packed, as well as soap, towels, toothpaste and other personal items.

You may be washing up in a bucket, so take a few plastic buckets that also can

Touch of Africa close to home

Are you one of the countless parents who dreads the idea of packing up the family for the seasonal trek to the amusement park? Do you cringe at the thought of struggling through the crowds and standing in line for twenty minutes with hundreds of screaming kids, just so your children can spend 65 seconds riding the roller-coaster?

If this sounds like you, why not relax this year? Take the family to African Lion Safari, a unique family experience you can enjoy from the comfort and privacy of your own car.

At African Lion Safari in Port Clinton, Ohio, your family can see prides of lion, herds of zebra, camels, ostrich, troops of monkeys, elephants, antelope, yak, tiger, auodod, elk, fallow deer, himalayan bear and much more.

African Lion Safari covers an area of 80 acres and is maintained year-round. Featured are animals from Asia, Africa and the Americas, in a natural bush country setting.

Also new in the Safari Wax Works. Here you'll see how fascinating candles of all types are made, in the traditional fashion — by hand. It's an educational opportunity for kids and parents, as well.

Back again this year is Robert Jonak's famous reptile exhibit, featuring 50 venomous snakes from around the world. Included are vipers, deadly cobras and the dreaded Mexican Beaded Lizard, one of only two poisonous lizards in the world. Lectures and tours of the exhibit are provided by trained experts.

You'll find everything your family will need for a full day of fun... snack stands, a picnic area, and more. Feel like walking? There's a foot safari where children of all ages can ride a pony, a giant tortoise, or an elephant, plus feed and pet baby animals in the "Affection Section".

There are special shows periodically, an import shop featuring gifts and souvenirs from all over the world and campgrounds nearby, if you'd like to spend a few days in the area.

Even if the kids do insist on taking in the amusement park scene, you still can find time to unwind before or after at African Lion Safari. This is especially true if Cedar Point is your destination, located just 10 minutes away.

African Lion Safari is open daily through Labor Day, and on weekends through mid-October, rain or shine. Cars are admitted from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m. It can be easily reached in about two hours from the Detroit area via I-275 south to the Ohio Turnpike or Route 2, east to the Pt. Clinton exit, the north to the park.

So, pack up the family and take a relaxing look at a little bit of Africa for a change. Come to African Lion Safari in nearby Port Clinton, Ohio.

Off-road RVs rise in popularity

People are taking to the hills—and the fields and woods—any place they can think of to get away from other people—and they're not going on foot.

The craze to "get away from it all", to find newer and more secluded places where there are fewer people, has brought about zooming sales in another phase of recreational vehicle—the off-road four-wheel drive RVs.

The list of off-road RVs includes a lot of oddball vehicles, from bikes to motorcycles with hugely-inflated tires, but the only kind of RV truly designed for this rugged brand of driving is the good old four-wheel drive, now often abbreviated as a "4X4".

The one with the longest lineage, which usually comes to mind first, is the venerable Jeep. Jeeps saw service in the Army and overseas long before they graduated to the general public. Now their popularity has increased tremendously, simply as a fun thing to own and drive.

Jeeps come in models for all occasions: the CJ line is fashioned after the regular Army Jeeps, but is available in both hard and soft tops; while the Waggoner provides enough room for a family and chattels, and the Cherokee line adds all manner of luxury options.

International Scout is another brand which has built itself a solid reputation for dependable performance. Scouts can fit into tighter places, and through smaller passages, than most 4X4's. They also come in several models.

The Scout II is essentially a two-seater and used for on and off-road pleasure, while the Scout Traveler is the family wagon version of that. With the Scout Terra, we get into another style of vehicle, the four-wheel drive pickup.

Most major car companies now offer their own version of the four-wheel RV: There are the Chevrolet Blazer and the Ford Bronco for example.

Pickup trucks have long standing in this field. They often offer extra room in the back seat now, thanks to an added rear cab.

Even farther away from the typical high-profile of the RVs are the new Subarus now in dealers' salesrooms. The Subaru Brat looks like a sleek automobile; and has its station wagon counterpart.

Another vehicle which most people associate with off-the-road activity is the dune buggy—but appearances can be deceiving. Dune buggies actually are two-wheel drive vehicles, very lightweight, with the engine in the rear to give them traction. Many run on Volkswagen engines and are stripped-down versions of the familiar VWs.

There are some other things to keep in mind while shopping around for a four-wheel drive vehicle.

Dealers say that if you buy one with a stick shift, you will be able to switch from two-wheel to four-wheel drive. But with an automatic shift, you'll have to stay in four-wheel drive all the time, which can be a little inconvenient on the flat surface of a highway. (Although, chuckholes being what they are, this too may not always be the case!)

Then, before you launch yourself into the wild North Woods, you'll need to buy an RV sticker from the nearest Secretary of State's office. This costs just a few dollars.

After that, the land is yours—at least, where it isn't posted!

The Farm: It's for city kids

When was the last time your children visited a farm?

Chances are, if you live in the city, that they never have actually visited a farm. And because of today's set-up your children may be missing out on the fun you once enjoyed as a child...a visit to the farm!

More importantly, your children may be missing out on direct knowledge of the food cycle that a farm provides. Do they know how milk and cheese come to us? Do they have the opportunity to meet and touch real farm animals?

Two Windsor men, Hugh Scratch and Ken Capstick, believe they have hit on an idea that will be fun and an education for the whole family.

They call it "The Farm." The Farm, is at 9009 Howard Avenue, just a few minutes drive from Windsor, is a children's park with an agricultural theme.

More than four years and $1.5 million to into making this park a unique concept in southwestern Ontario. In many cases, the people at The Farm actually are planning and building their own displays, using a variety of experience in similar fun parks.

But The Farm is much more than just a "fun park".

For Ken Capstick, the whole thing has been "a dream". He wants to make it a true agricultural project which will show the kids, through both an educational and fantasy vein, where the stuff they eat comes from.

Thus, The Farm has Minnie the Cow, (milk production) a cheese serve as a place to store toothbrush and paste, soap dishes and such.

One camper cautioned that many times the vehicle's refrigerator will malfunction if it is not level. So take a level and appropriate jacks to keep your trailer even.

If you're driving a recreational vehicle, which is a car and trailer in one, it is a very good idea to strap a bicycle or two to the back of the bus. Once you're "camped in," you may want to ride into town, and the bike will get you there easier than driving the bus.

Naturally, you'll want to give your vehicle a complete "check-up" for oil, water, air, and so on before you ever leave your driveway. Have the tires checked, make sure the lugs are tightened down, the spare tire in good order and your jack in the trunk.

You'll be far ahead, too, if you not only pack all the maps you'll need, but plot your course, and the length of each day's trip ahead of time. Campgrounds can be full at all times of the summer months, so advance reservations are an extra safeguard.

Some campers choose to travel with friends, many times in a highway caravan. If this is your style, make sure everyone knows the day's destination, in case one gets lost along the way. Of course, communication can be increased, and emergency help secured quickly, if your vehicle is equipped with a CB radio.

If your family has a pet, think ahead about how the animal will withstand the trip before automatically assuming he'll go with you. Animals can get car sick, overheated and miserable on trips, and might be better off staying home.

You can't expect every home luxury when you head off for your camping vacation, whether you go in tents, camper, trailer or bus. But it can be easier if you've packed right. There are even books available to give you tips.

So start making your list now. And if you end up to be the camper who has everything, don't be surprised to find fellow travelers at your door asking to borrow a can opener.

Pool upkeep is regular chore

By CONNIE MILFORD
ANP Staff Writer

Ah, those sunny summer days spent lounging by the pool! Ah, those luxurious visions of poolside living!

Anyone with visions of the family sun-deck and swimming pool dancing in his head should balance them with a few of the realities about the care and keeping of the family swimming pool.

Both sorts, above ground and in-ground, require careful maintenance, regular inspection and seasonal care.

Fortunately, most pool sales outlets will give free advice on how to keep your family afloat during the summer, as well as sell you the equipment and supplies. A & B Pools on Ford road in Westland kindly supplied us with a one-page typed information sheet which they also give to their customers.

The first thing to do, as soon as the last frost melts, is make a careful inspection of your pool and all its equipment.

Experts advise cleaning all debris from the decks, walls and floor, inspecting all the painted surfaces, and then looking into the filter and its operation.

The filter must be cleaned regularly, by backwashing once a week, or when the differential between the influent and the effluent gauges reaches six pounds.

It will be necessary to prime the pump manually at the start of the season, or every time the pump has been drained of water, even if it is self-priming.

Once the pump is primed and in operation, the filter should be run continuously 24 hours a day since constant stopping and starting could produce excessive wear on moving parts.

All other equipment, such as the pool floor and diving board, should be cleaned also. A pool vacuum comes in handy here.

The diving board gets its "bounce" from a rubber-covered fulcrum—which, if it or the anchor bolts show wear, should be immediately replaced—otherwise a serious accident may result.

Once the equipment is in trim and humming smoothly along, you, the owner, may feel relieved, but now is no time to relax.

Instead, now is the time for the proud pool owner to review his school chemistry courses, and delve into that other area of mystique—chemical maintenance.

For this, you will need to be armed with a water test kit, an algacide, chlorine and alum.

Golf togs: Coordinates dominate

ANP Staff Writer

When our news editor tagged me for the "golf apparel" bit for this recreation tab, I felt she'd been picking my thoughts up on some kind of secret radar. Being real golf "nuts", my husband and I manage to hit the larger pro shops in the area each year before we head south for a golf package vacation in the spring. Last March we checked out one near Pontiac, another in Livonia and a third in Southfield to see what was being touted as the "latest" in golf togery.

When people first take up the challenge of golf, they are so engrossed in the proper grip, stiff left arm, follow-through, etc., that they're really not aware of such a thing as golf fashions.

Getting under the ball, correcting a hook, keeping the head down, hitting out of the sand and putting well are all much more important than what comprises a golf wardrobe.

BUT — once a guy or gal has taken the rough edges off that swing, stance or slice and moves from the par-3 courses to the regulation fairways, they are suddenly aware that cut-offs, sneakers, halters and muscle shirts are NOT proper at the golf or country club.

Novices will suddenly note the well-turned out couple approaching the first tee in smartly coordinated slacks and shirt, skirt and top. They'll spot, too, the perky hat or cap each has chosen to mark his/her individuality as well as the matching or contrasting shoes and gloves. And they'll pay attention to the headcovers which cloak the 1, 3, 4 and often 5-woods which harmonize with the colors in the golfer's bag.

Women will notice the unusual in footlets which now feature ball fringe, tiny bow, miniature flower, embroidery or double cuff accents. They'll zero in, too, on anything novel in the way of m'lady's little golf tote which bears the minor essentials like band-aids, aspirin, emery boards, tissue, gum, glasses, money, etc. It's always fun to be "first" with a new golf look.

At the largest of the pro shops last spring the his 'n hers outfits were being featured with identical fabric for his slacks and her skirts and, of course, matching shirts. Since the fella who created a monster when he bought that starter set of clubs for me didn't "buy" the Bobsey twin effect, we've never wowed 'em as look-alikes.

But, like its feathered or furred counterparts in the zoology world, the male animal likes to be the more colorful on the links. The bolder, the better, they claim. We gals call it "loud". Plaids, checks, strips, paisleys, prints are turning up at Lemontree and other golf clubs in screaming hot pinks, fuchsias and purples; garish oranges, yellow and greens and the WILDEST prints this side of Salvador Dali. Color is IN!

Once the basics have been selected the well-dressed guy or gal continues in the quest for a coordinated outfit — "coordination" being another key word in today's golf game.

The conventional golf hat, which should pick up one of the main colors in the slacks or skirt, can be anything from straw to silk to canvas today. The more seasoned male, duffer is often seen Sam Snead or Chi Chi Rodriguez-style wearing a standard men's hat in straw or nylon. Others will go the Tom Kite-Jan Stephenson route and opt for the visor-look. The squashable hat (reminiscent of an overturned potty), and often in prints or plaids, will carry out the Mark Hayes trend. All modes of brimmed straws are on the scene of late; each playing to the individual golfer's preference for sun and wind protection or, in many cases, just a "trademark" look of his own.

The basic golf cap often carries status symbols — the emblems advertising that this guy or gal has seen action at The Dunes in Myrtle Beach or Torrey Pines in San Diego. Quaint-sounding courses such as Quail Creek Golf Club or Possum Trot or Eagles Roost make ideal conversation pieces and often break the ice for strangers being paired up on an "alien course."

Golf shoes are another symbol of individuality and a person can take half a day just trying to DECIDE on brand, color, composition, trim, etc. Suede, alligator, leather, canvas, and man-made products are on the market along with a kaleidoscope of colors and combinations. Doug Sanders probably did as much for the shoe-matched-to-the-outfit trend as any pro on the tour. His pink pair a few years back raised many an eyebrow but on today's color conscious sports scene, people are opting for that "something different" for the fairways.

Gloves, once a mere necessity, are now adding their mark to the well-groomed golfer and, too, come in a variety of fabrics, colors, cuts and trims.

Women will often choose a glove to carry out the "theme" of her clubs — in this case, my Royal Daisy irons and woods, emblazoned with a perky white daisy, give me a little trademark to carry out on my golf balls, glove, club covers, etc.

All in all, today's "golf look" combines class and comfort but mostly the individual aura. Be it shirts with Jack Nicklaus' "golden bear" logo or ensembles bearing the Lee Trevino label, today's golf buff is advertising "style".

Columbus' flagship 'discovers' Detroit

The "Santa Maria," which is coming to Detroit next Wednesday, is visiting places that Christopher Columbus probably never even dreamed about.

On her maiden voyage, the ship sailed to New York City as a participant in "Operation Sail" with the Tall Ships. Since then, this 94-foot replica of Columbus' flagship has sailed to over 100 ports from Canada to Texas. Detroit is only 1 of 30 planned stops on the "Santa Maria's" first tour of the Great Lakes this summer.

Young American Showcase Inc. owns and operates the "Santa Maria." The St. Petersburg, Fla., - based organization has for the past 10 years been involved in cultural enrichment programs for students. In addition to its floating museum project, the company also is a musical entertainment enterprise which produces secondary school assembly programs to tour throughout the United States and Canada.

The 10-man crew, which lives on board the vessel, will be conducting guided tours, dressed as 15th century soldiers and sailors. An average of 1,500 visitors daily line up to be taken back in history and relive the spirit of 1492.

The idea for the "Santa Maria" started with extensive research in the archives of Madrid, Barcelona, Palos de la Frontera and the monastery of La Rabida in Spain. It was later patterned after designs of a replica built by the Spanish Commission of 1892 to commemorate the 400th anniversary of Columbus' voyage. Careful studies of the time period's furniture and ship furnishings were done to assure authenticity in the ship's interior.

Weather permitting, the "Santa Maria" will arrive under full sail on July 12 at the Civic Center dock at 10 a.m. Exhibit hours will be 12 noon to 8 p.m. Wednesday, 10:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. Thursday and 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. on Friday.

Ticket prices are $2 per person and there is a family rate of $6. (Children under 5 are free when accompanied by a parent.)

ARCHERY:

Recreation with a 'point' to it

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

People who love the outdoors and are looking for something new in the way of recreation may want to join the ever increasing numbers taking up archery.

The bow and arrow sport, like so many other recreational activities, has boomed in the last few years. And it promises to continue to grow rapidly in popularity as new followers try the age-old activity.

"I think archery is really starting to come into its own now, with quite a few high schools and colleges teaching it," said professional archer Bob Thorne, manager of Springer Archery Supply, 12731 Huron River Dr., in Romulus.

Thorne, 33, is a 10-year veteran of the sport who got acquainted with a bow and arrow when his friend's dad took him out. He liked it so much, he not only stayed with it but is now teaching others the fun and fulfillment a trained archer can experience.

Thorne was asked how a beginner would go about getting started.

He said the person would have to determine whether he or she wanted a hunting or target bow. Taking the hypothetical case of a 6-foot, 200 pound man and a 5-foot-5, 130 pound woman, Thorne explained what they would probably handle.

In hunting, the man would use approximately a 30-31-inch draw length (distance string is pulled back) with 50-70 pounds tension, depending upon his strength. The woman would have about a 26-inch draw length and between 30-35 pounds.

For target shooting, the man would shoot anywhere from 40-50 pounds and the woman would handle approximately 28-32 pounds.

"Tournament archery is a lot different than planking in your backyard," Thorne pointed out. "Tournament archery is the much more sophisticated end of it."

The finest aluminum arrow money can buy is the X-7 by Easton, according to Thorne. Among the finest bows are the Jennings Arrow Star, Bear Company Tamerlane, TSE, Citation and Astro Regency.

Melodrama is revived

Audiences can get a glimpse of 1867 fashions for the well-dressed villain (topcoat, top hat and handlebar mustache) and the year's "in" color (basic black) during Henry Ford Museum Theater's presentation of the old-fashioned melodrama, "Under the Gaslight," Friday and Saturday evenings through July 29.

This classic play, which was the first to feature a character tied in the path of an approaching train, tells the story of aristocratic Laura Courtland and the villainy she suffers at the hands of evil Byke.

The play begins with dark secrets about Laura's birth emerging from her past, halting her planned marriage and toppling her from polite society. The triumph of good over evil is postponed, in true melodramatic fashion, until the surprise ending.

Showtime is 8:30 p.m., and admission is $3. Tickets may be bought at the museum entrance daily between 8:30 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., at the box office beginning one hour before the performance, or by mail.

A Dinner Theater option is available all dates except July 21. The $12.50 cost covers a buffet dinner at Heritage Hall, the performance and all taxes and gratuities. Advance reservations required.

Thorne said there are two major brands of target mats on the market. The best, he says, is made by Saunders Archery and the second best by Excelsior. Both have bale thickness of from 12 to 48 inches for stopping arrows shot by the new, more sophisticated compound bows.

The compound bows are constructed with pulleys, cables and eccentrics. Price for a hunting or target bow for a beginner ranges from $45 to $275, Thorne said.

We asked him how much it would cost for a beginner to be completely outfitted to try the sport.

In addition to the $45 bow, he said the average person buys 12 arrows at a cost of $27. A quiver to carry the arrows would run about $13, a glove costs $3 and an average target is priced at about $25.

For hunting, you'd need special hunting tips for your arrows which screw into the end of the arrow and cost $1. Then, for those who want them, there are target sights that fit right on the bow and cost anywhere from $6 to $50.

The biggest danger in handling bows, according to Thorne, is to have a "dry fire", that is, to pull the string back and shoot it with no arrow in it. That runs the risk of snapping a limb, breaking a cable or breaking an eccentric wheel.

A danger to kids is that they may put their fingers in the cable of the bow when it is shot. This would be like a child sticking his finger in a bike chain and pulling it around onto the sprocket.

Thorne says archery is for all ages and children begin as early as five years old to play "Robin Hood". And he recommends parents starting their children as young as possible after they reach that age.

There are four archery clubs in the area where the sport is taught: Lincoln Bowmen, Romulus; Ford Archers, Woodhaven; Washtenaw Sportsmen's Club, Ann Arbor and Belleville Archery, Belleville.

These four clubs work together under the title of Metropolitan Archers Association of which Thorne is president.

BOATING:

Think before you set 'sail'

So you have made the decision to join the growing ranks of boating enthusiasts in Western Wayne County. The lure of open water has overcome you, and now it's time to hit the showrooms. But wait. Are you sure that you really know what type of boat will serve your needs best?

For the benefit of those many people who have decided to hit the 'Winter Wonderland's Water', the following information may be useful.

The first consideration following that fateful decision to buy a boat is the most basic. How will you pay for it?

Of course, if you are one of those fortunate enough to have stashed away a nest egg for the purpose, financing of your new investment will be no problem, but for the rest of us, payments will be necessary.

Because the cost of boats, like everything else, has risen dramatically in the past few years, your decision on how to finance your new purchase could save you thousands over the life of the loan. So shop around. Check out the current interest rates available from several sources — banks, credit unions, savings and loans, etc. But don't overlook the showroom's as a possible source of a good deal on the loan.

Now that you have a commitment for the loan, start your shopping.

How will you use the boat? Will you be wanting to cruise the Great Lakes or simply the state's many fine inland lakes? Will fishing be the primary purpose for the boat or will you want to pull 10 water skiers? Do you want power or will you rely on Mother Nature? All of these considerations will affect the decision on the type of water craft that will best for you.

Boating on the Great Lakes will require a larger freeboard than boating on the inland lakes, and the choice of the power source for the craft will be dependent on the power and-or speed that you feel you will need. But with all of those decisions now behind you, you pull the brand new sparkling beauty into the driveway.

Following the oohs and ahs from the neighbors you start packing the trunk of the car for the first outing, but you had better wait again.

Have you read the manual that comes with the boat? Boating, unlike driving a car, provides the excellent opportunity for the inexperienced hand to get into trouble. And in the middle of a lake, help is a bit more difficult to come by.

So the first thing you must do after getting the new boat home is to thoroughly read the manual and familiarize yourself with the safe operation of the boat.

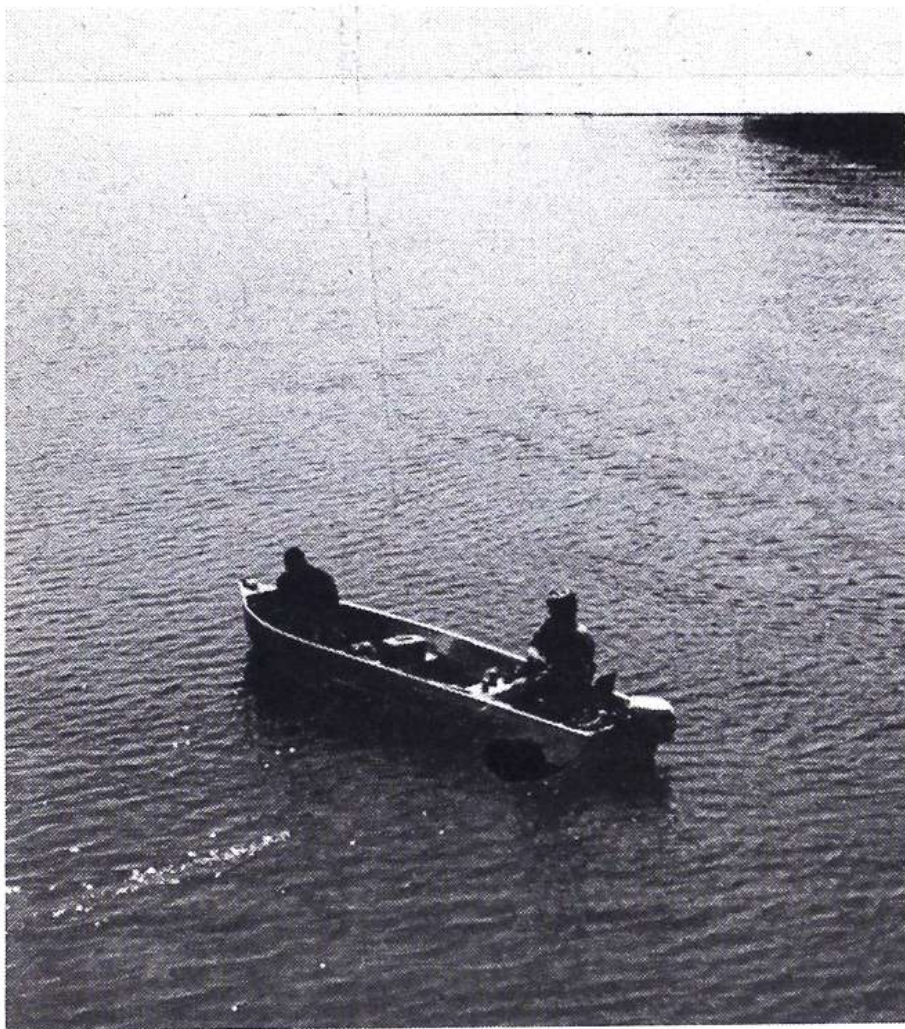

One of the first things that will impress you is the concern which manufacturers feel for the safe handling and storage of the fuel for the craft. You will notice that special venting devices and blowers are provided to expell any possible buildup of potentially dangerous gasoline fumes. Fire on land is bad, but if you have a fire or explosion on your boat, there is no easy retreat from it.

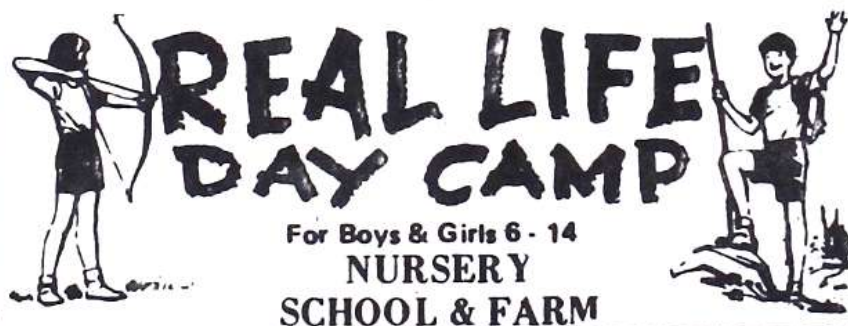

After you have studied the manual and are sure that you understand how the craft was designed to operate, you should study the rules of the road for boaters.

Many local sherriff's offices will provide boaters with a handy booklet which explains both the law and the courtesy of boating.

It is important that you comply with the provision of the law, which by the way, were designed primarily to save you life. It

For fun in the sun

The water test is made to insure that the pool water is held between a pH of 7.2 and 8.0; because it aids in maintaining a proper chlorine residue, prevents irritation to the eyes and noses of swimmers using the pool, decreases the corrosion of metal parts, and assures the proper floccing of alum on the filter bed. (More about that "floccing" in a moment)

The algacide is required to prevent your pool being filled with a healthy growth of little green things—microscopic, but messy. The first dose should measure one gallon of algacide to every 50,000 gallons of water. After that, add one CUP for every 50,000 gallons of water, at intervals.

Chlorine combats germs and purifies pool water—but it dissolves rapidly in sunlight and should be applied only in the early morning or evening. See your dealer for correct dosage.

Cloudy water, if it is caused by something other than algae, calls for the use of alum—and here we return to that word "floccing".....

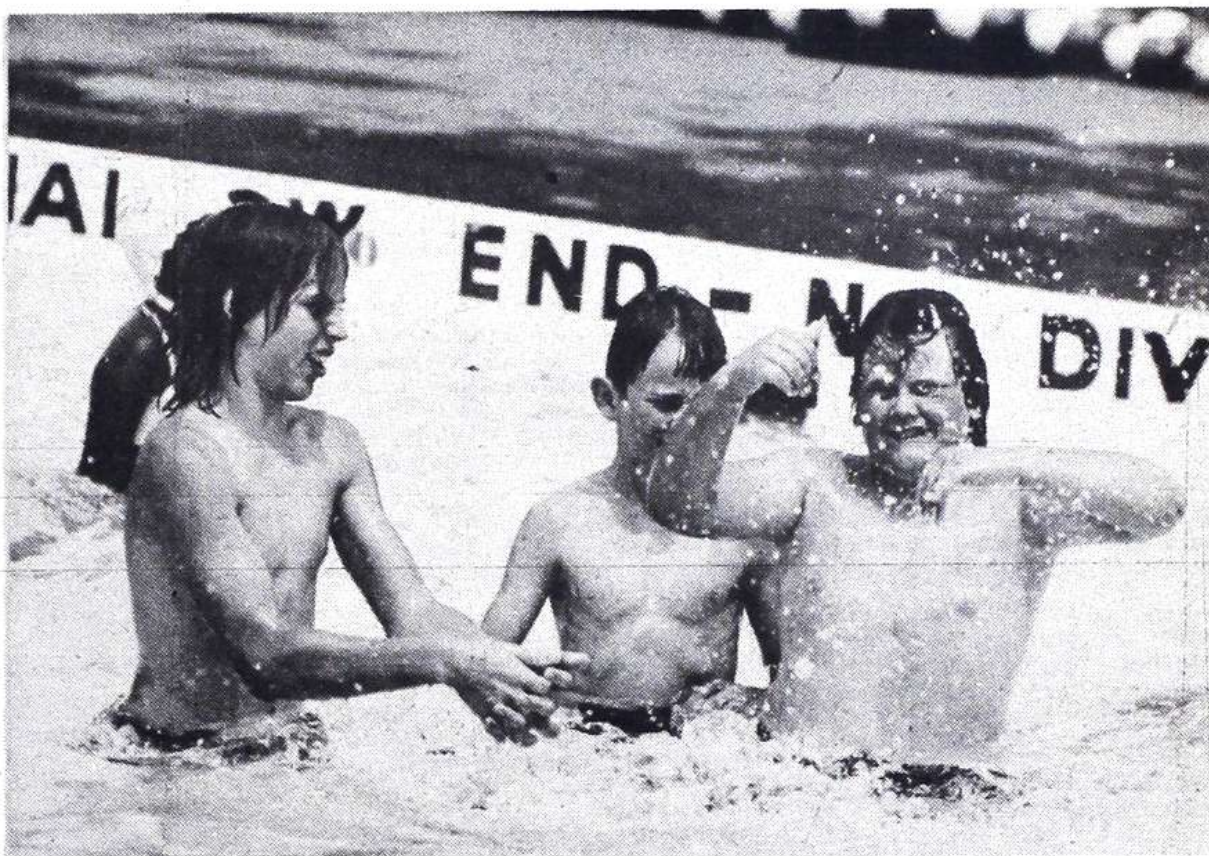

Alum will form a floc—a gelatinous mass—over the sand or gravel filter, the dosage being two ounces per square foot of filter area.

A floc strains out particles which are too fine for even sand to trap. But at the same time, alum lowers the pH value of the water, which should be very carefully checked and corrected—possibly by the use of soda ash to raise the value.

A nice little equation regarding pH balance would run something like this: Ash raises; alum lowers. The two can be used in striking the preferred pH.

And now you're ready to spend a summer at poolside, provided, of course, you keep a regular inspection and maintenance going.

And provided, of course, that you remembered to fill the pool in the first place!

CAMPING

There's more to it than pitching a tent

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

Camping. It's a recreational activity you either like very much or abhor greatly. There's no middle ground. You can have all the conveniences of home or just a few necessities, but the one thing you do need is a love of the out of doors.

There are several types of camping available to the novice camper—by tent, camper trailer or recreational vehicle. Tent camping is the most rustic approach, but with a little effort it too can be as elaborate as the best equipped recreational vehicle.

And tent camping is what this article is all about.

If you're starting out in camping and have none of the equipment, before you start buying, there's a few things you should consider.

Your most important purchase will be the tent, which can be made of canvass, nylon or a combine of both. Canvass tents are a bit bulkier than the lighter weight nylon ones and are a bit harder to pack.

The size of the tent is another consideration. Small two-man tents will fit nicely in a car, but its name aptly describes the accommodations—floor space for two sleeping bags. If you want to store food boxes or luggage you may find a few lumps under your sleeping bag.

When tents are described as sleeping two or six people, it means the floor space will accommodate two or six people with their sleeping bags touching. If you want a little privacy you may have to consider a larger tent.

We travel with a 10-14-foot canvass tent, that sleeps two adults, one child and two large- and medium-sized dogs. The extra space allows for stashing the camp stove and ice chest suitcases, and with a little rearranging, lawn chairs for some light reading during rain storms.

The next important purchase is sleeping bags. The weight—by pound—determines how much protection you'll get from the cold down to a certain temperature. If you're going to be a summer only camper, you won't need sleeping bags designed for Arctic weather.

Air mattresses also are something to consider, unless you like waking up to a sore back that is molded to every pebble and hole underneath the tent floor. They come in all styles, with rubberized canvass about your best bet. Vinyl mattresses are best used for swimming, since the canvass ones are reinforced and can stand up to tossing and turning over an extended period of time.

Once you've determined what the accommodations will be like, it's time to start on the kitchen "utensils". By utensils I mean the camp stove and ice chest. Camp stoves also come in all shapes and styles from a one-burner propane to three-burner fuel feed.

Propane stoves operate off of cylinders of propane gas, while fuel-feed stoves use a liquid gas, sold specifically for such stoves and camp lanterns.

The size of the stove will be determined by how much cooking you do. If you're idea of breakfast is hot coffee than a two-burner, will suffice, but if you go the route of bacon and eggs and coffee, something isn't going to be hot when the other two are.

I used a two-burned fuel-feed stove one year and found it no fun jockeying the coffee pot, two frying pans and a bucket of hot water—for washing dishes—no fun at all. The next year I purchased a three-burner stove. I still have to jockey pots and pans around, but at least the entire meal is hot when I serve it.

The ice chest is a value judgement. Their sole purpose is to keep food cold. The size is up to you. If you only plan on keeping some milk, meat and vegetables cold, a smaller one will suffice, but if you hope to also fit beer and pop in there, better buy a bigger one.

Those are the basic items you need to set up camp, but if you plan to commune with nature where there is no electricity, then consider the purchase of a camp lantern. They come in one- or two-mantal gas or propane styles. Their purpose is to provide light around the campsite after dark, and the size of the area you want to light up is up to you.

There also are a few other items you might want to purchase. Unless you have a fantastic lung capacity and don't mind huffing and puffing for an hour or so, an air pump should be considered for inflating those air mattresses. There are hand pumps, similar to bicycle pumps, foot pumps that work like bellows and a lazy man's dream come true, an electric pump that operates off the car's cigarette lighter.

Another item to consider is an awning for protection from bad weather. Inexpensive versions are of a nylon-reinforced material with side poles and stakes and a center pole that sits on top of the table. More elaborate ones include screening, floors and even flaps to keep the rain out.

That's the basic equipment you'll need to set up camp. What you add to it—lawn chairs, portable radio, electric lights, portable bar—is up to you.

Farm introduces city kids, country factory, a bread story (in future years) showing the thrashing and milling of wheat, and finally, the baking with little animals telling the story.

Ken is the former general manager of Boblo, which combined with his family's background in agriculture (his father was the head of the Harrow Fair) has made this dream possible.

Ken also used to manage

Fun Time Productions, the sidewalk-shopping-carnival-rides show which used to travel from town to town.

The Farm's attractions include a typical farmyard setting, a miniature train that tours through actual growing crops, kiddie rides, large picnic areas, a petting zoo of farm animals, lots of free parking, pay-one-price admission, a giant chicken demonstrating egg and chick production, a cow to tell how milk is made and a huge mouse to tell about cheese. Many more new and exciting agricultural displays are being added continually.

If you want to turn a family outing into a fun-filled educational experience, then perhaps The Farm should be your next stop. It's easy to find, just on the outskirts of Windsor at 9009 Howard Avenue. Look for the bright red mailbox of The Farm.

Now, one last thing. Do you have insurance?

Many insurance companies will provide you with a complete package including public liability and property damage for as little as $75 per year. Those policies will also cover the craft while it is being stored for the off season.

OK. Now start packing your trunk.

With the first low rumble of the new boat's power plant, or the flapping of the sails searching for air, you are convinced that your decision to take to the water was one of the best you have made.

You have many hours of enjoyment before you. But never compromise the pleasure for a few shortcuts which could end in disaster.

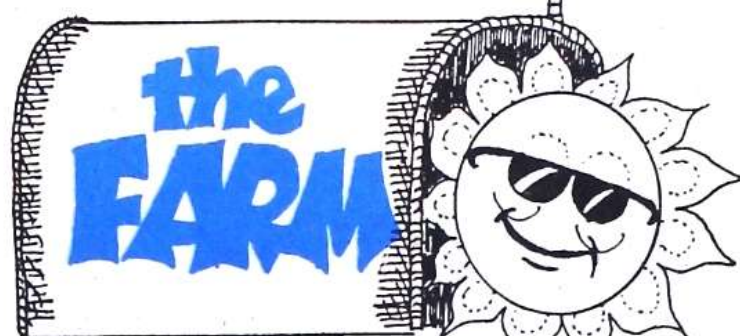

On the water, the captain is boss and responsible for the safety of his passengers.

Always remember that, and keep the life jackets handy.
